

A Grassroots 'No' to Federal Grants

Editor Louis Graves in Nashville (Ark.) News
Jan., 10, 1964

No one, leastwise those in this area, ever doubted the courage, and only infrequently, the wisdom, of Hope Editor Alex Washburn.

This time the editor has bit off another big chunk — how to keep Uncle Sam from wasting money, even in the editor's hometown?

After all, this is the era of billion-dollar spending, and there is a mad scramble to Washington to get the most out of the bankrupt public treasury. Heading the pack, of course, are the elected congressmen who expect their reward from the electorate. And usually get it!

So Mr. Washburn, with his usual courage and a wisdom that is almost quaint in its logic, has taken the lead in trying to cut off federal plans to spend $500,000 on a new post office for Hope.

His reasons are simple and understandable —

1. In 1915 the U.S. public debt was one billion dollars; in 1920 at the end of the war it was 24 billion; by 1930 it had been reduced to 16 billion but during the depression it rose to a 1941 level of 48. The debt was 258 billion in 1945. No return to stability after the war. The debt now stands at more than 300 billion. Each American's share of that debt is $1,625.

Today the government is operating at a loss of around 6 billion yearly but wartime tax levels continue.

2. Hempstead county lost 21.5 percent of its population between 1950 and 1960. Other counties suffered similar losses.

His conclusion — "the government's debt record alone would seem to dictate that Hope, and the thousands of American towns like it, should be denied a new post office even if it needed it — which it doesn't."

So the Hope editor is pushing a petition to kill the post office project, and bury it along with a defeated $250,000 paving job and a local housing project.

The common practice is to preach economy but practice it elsewhere. Mr. Washburn has done the uncommon thing.

(Nope, we don't think he has a THING to gain personally. If we know our fellow editor, he pursues his own convictions with unselfish endeavor.)

It just happens that in this growing welfare state one doesn't take a pot shot at Santa Claus when he's trying to come down the chimney — even though Santa's bills are being pushed in the front door simultaneously.

Letters to Editor

Editor The Star: It was with considerable interest that I read the editorial in the Jan. 13, 1964, edition of the Wall Street Journal titled "A Felicitous Example" which referred to a proposed federal-owned postal facility for your community.

You may be interested to know that in the January 8, 1963, edition of the same newspaper, under "Notable and Quotable," a letter written by Carl D. Black, editor of the Sanilac County Jeffersonian of Crowell, Mich., was quoted. This letter was on the same subject and I am sure you will obtain considerable information from a review of it. You might care to write to Mr. Black and I am sure he would be willing to send you whatever information he has on this subject.

You will find enclosed a copy of a short talk which I have given on several occasions. I believe the information will interest you. I have been given to understand that none of the proposed new buildings referred to have become realities.

Please accept my congratulations on the stand you have taken and if I can be of any assistance feel free to call on me.

Ed Note: Thanks very much. I missed Carl D. Black's letter to WSJ a year ago. But I know that I am only one of a growing army of informed Americans who are alarmed over the course of our government and its uncontrolled public debt — proof of which lies in the letters I have received from coast to coast, including your own.

I suppose the seeds of the present Hope controversy go back to three years ago when I headed a national committee of 205 American newspapers and publishers. Sherman Named to State Board

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Gov. Orval E. Faubus today appointed John K. Sherman of Fort Smith to the state Commission on Alcoholism.

Sherman will fill a vacancy created by the resignation of Dr. N. T. Hollis of Jonesboro from a term which expires May 11, 1967.

Legislature to Be Called Into Session

By JOHN R. STARR
LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Arkansas took two quick steps today toward a special legislative session on voter registration.

First Gov. Orval E. Faubus said he has decided to call the session as soon as the Legislative Council could study voter registration and make its recommendations.

Then Pulaski County Rep. Joe Y. Ledbetter, council chairman, called a meeting of the council for 10 a.m. Feb. 10 to begin the study.

The developments opened the door to setting the session as early as Feb. 17, but it is not expected until later in the month.

Faubus met today with House Speaker Marion Crank and Perry County Rep. Paul Van Dalsem, apparently to get their ideas, and then announced his decision.

Both Faubus and Crank said all the legislators with whom they had discussed voter registration wanted to get the special session over with as soon as possible.

The council study will start in the Committee on State and Local Governments, but Faubus said the committee chairman, Sen. Robert Harvey of Swifton, told him today on the telephone that the committee probably would move the matter quickly on for consideration by the full council to avoid duplication of effort.

Crank said any individual or group with a voter registration proposal would be invited to appear before the council.

Meantime, Crank said, he will call the House Efficiency Committee into session within two weeks to begin getting ready for the special session.

Honest Folks Cause Crooks in Politics

"The reason for 'crooked politics' is that too many honest people avoid taking part in political action," Mrs. Nolan Troxell of Rosebud, Ark., president of the Arkansas Federation of Republican Women, told an assembled group of Hempstead Republican Women on Tuesday night, January 28. She urged women to become better informed on political issues and said, "Women are interested in politics because of their faith in the American way of life. They should avoid the peril of apathy."

The importance of the women's vote was shown when Mrs. Troxell said, "There is a majority of four million women voters in the United States, and these are the crucial years for developing better government. Next to religion, politics should have priority on women's interest."

Through a recorded report of the minority opinion by Texas Representative John Dowdy, the group heard about the radical Civil Rights Bill and how it was "railroaded into the legislature."

The local meeting was held in the home of Mrs. Lloyd Guerin, where tasty assorted tidbits were served with coffee to 13 Mrs. Haskell Jones presided over the business meeting.

Mrs. M. B. Hatch, nominating committee chairman, presented the following slate of officers which was accepted unanimously: president, Mrs. Frank Grachev; vice-president, Mrs. J. W. Branch; secretary, Mrs. Paul Ward; treasurer, Mrs. Wayne Rawdon; hospitality chairman, Mrs. Haskell Jones. It was decided to hold monthly meetings at 7:30 p.m. on the fourth Tuesday.

Bloodless Coup in Viet Nam, Army Controls

By MALCOLM W. BROWNE

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — Nguyen Khanh, commander of the South Vietnamese army's 1st Corps, seized control of South Viet Nam's government today in a swift, bloodless coup.

Khanh, 37, abolished the military junta that had ruled since last Nov. 1 and a Saigon radio broadcast indicated he was forming a new council of generals to assist him.

U.S. military sources said Mai Gen. Duong Van Minh, provisional chief of state and chairman of the junta which overthrew President Ngo Dinh Diem, had been arrested. Teks had ringed his residence before dawn at the start of the coup.

Saigon radio said the coup was staged to wipe out "certain elements who support the colonialist and Communist policy to neutralize South Viet Nam," a policy advocated last fall by President Charles de Gaulle of France.

"The new revolutionary government," said the broadcast, "will work to reform the country, wipe out conspirators and establish the nation on a basis of democracy."

Saigon radio announced: "The standing committee of the revolutionary military committee formed on Nov. 1 last year lacked the ability to deal with the nation's internal and external problems and therefore has been dissolved. The new chairman of the standing committee is Lt. Gen. Nguyen Khanh, commander of the 1st Corps. This decision is effective today, Jan. 30."

Khanh also apparently promoted himself so he would outrank the other generals in the army. He and the rest had been major generals.

Among those reported driven from power with Minh were the junta's No. 2 man and defense minister, Maj. Gen. Tran Van Don, and the No. 3 man and armed forces chief of staff, Maj. Gen. Le Van Kim.

Although rumors and conflicting reports kept the situation in confusion, they apparently were shunted aside because they were considered proponents of De Gaulle's proposal for a unified, neutralized Viet Nam.

Khanh in his seizure of power reportedly had the support of the interior minister, Maj. Gen. Ton That Dinh; the information minister, Maj. Gen. Do Mau; and the 3rd Corps commander, Maj. Gen. Le Van Khiem.

Eight battalions of marines and paratroopers occupied Saigon before dawn. The approximately 4,500 men were supported by tanks and other armor.

Prosecution Hot on Neck of Hoffa

By GAVIN SCOTT

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn. (AP) — A shapely woman musician from Florida linked a Huntington, W. Va., businessman today with a Nashville nightclub operator — expected to be a key witness in James R. Hoffa's jury-tampering trial.

Carol Pettijohn, a pianist from Lakeland, Fla., testified she accompanied Nicholas J. Tweel, the businessman and one of five men on trial with the Teamsters' Union president, on a tour of eight Nashville night spots during Hoffa's conspiracy trial.

At the Sportsman's Bar, she said, Tweel was introduced to Dallas Hall, the operator, and the two men conversed. She said she didn't hear what they said.

The government has said it will show Tweel, at the direction of Hall, the operator, and defendant Allen Dorfman of Chicago, asked Hall to try to contact jurors who were hearing the trial.

Hall may testify later today. Miss Pettijohn said she was in Nashville during Hoffa's 1962 trial, as a professional pianist at a downtown hotel. She said she met Tweel while working.

Earlier, the government sought to link Hoffa with a series of telephone calls which it claims were made to rig his Nashville trial jury.

A Detroit telephone company official testified that calls, from pay booths, were made on a credit card issued to the Detroit Teamsters local which Hoffa heads. Those from Detroit, he said, were made from a pay booth near Hoffa's home — at a time the union leader was on trial in Nashville.

Light Rain in Parts of State

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Light rain and snow dampened scattered sections of the nation today but no severe cold was reported.

More rain fell in parts of Texas and Oklahoma, with heaviest amounts in north central Texas. Nearly two inches was reported in Mineral Wells.

The wet belt was expected to extend eastward to Alabama and northward into Missouri.

There was more rain in the Pacific Northwest, with snow and freezing rain spreading inland eastward into northern Nevada and Idaho. Light snow fell in the eastern and northern Great Lakes region. More than one inch was reported in Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., making a total of 25 inches of snow on the ground.

Rocket to Moon Set Off by U.S. on 66-Hour Flight

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP)

The Ranger 6 rocketed toward the moon on a photographic mission today and successfully cleared early hurdles on the planned 66-hour flight.

Ranger 6's assignment is to streak 230,187 miles to the moon, take more than 3,000 pictures of the lunar surface and relay them to earth in a furious ten-minute burst of activity before it crash lands.

The planned impact time is about 4:30 a.m. EST Sunday.

Ranger 6 is the first of four similar payloads planned for launching this year to help locate possible moon landing areas for American astronauts scheduled to make lunar voyages late this decade.

A 10-story tall Atlas-Agena rocket thundered away from Cape Kennedy at 10:49 a.m. EST to start the gold-and-silver-plated spacecraft on its journey.

Nearly an hour later the National Aeronautics and Space Administration announced the mammoth rocket apparently had done its job and hurled Ranger 6 outward on its long voyage.

Officials said it may require several hours to determine whether the payload achieved the proper course and speed of about 24,500 m.p.h.

The announcement said tracking data received at stations in Johannesburg, South Africa and Woomera, Australia, indicated the spacecraft was headed in the proper direction toward the moon.

Radio communication difficulty delayed receipt of this information at Cape Kennedy for nearly 30 minutes and for a while observers at the cape felt that perhaps the Agena second stage had not fired properly.

Many possible pitfalls still lay ahead for the speedy spacecraft. Failure to complete any of the tricky tasks could wreck the experiment and the United States could end up with the 12th failure in as many launchings in its troubled moon exploration program.

Governor Okays Washington Buy

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Gov. Orval E. Faubus approved today plans of the Publicity and Parks Commission to buy the home of former Gov. Augustus Garland in Washington (Hempstead County) for restoration as a historical shrine.

The purchase price is $6,500. Faubus said the group's sponsoring the restoration of Washington, Confederate capitol of Arkansas, would restore the old building at an estimated cost of $30,000.

Garland was governor of Arkansas from 1874 to 1876.

Senate to Start on Tax Cut Measure

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate begins debate today on the $11.6-billion tax cut bill and administration forces are confident it will be passed overwhelmingly, probably late next week.

Several floor fights are in prospect before the final vote, but the major rate cut provisions of the bill are expected to survive.

These provisions will mean substantial savings for practically every individual and corporate income taxpayer in the nation.

President Johnson has put the bill at the top of his legislative list along with civil rights and has made repeated public and private appeals for early action. The administration claims a tax cut would spur economic growth and cut into unemployment.

The Treasury Wednesday released new tables showing what savings the committee's version would mean for a four-person family which files return with itemized deductions.

The tax cut would be $82 for such a family with $5,000 income, $159 for one in the $7,500 bracket, $287 for one with $12,500 income, and $545 for a $100,000 family.

Bloodless Coup

But unlike the bloody uprising against Diem three months ago not a shot was fired.

Despite troop concentrations around key government buildings and at many street intersections, traffic moved normally. Many Vietnamese appeared unaware that anything unusual was happening.

U.S. Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge was advised of the impending coup Wednesday night and sent an urgent message to Gen. Paul D. Harkins, commander of U.S. forces in Viet Nam, asking him to return to the capital from a field trip, informed sources said.

U.S. military authorities appeared deeply disturbed. "This development can only hurt the war effort," said a senior officer. It was the wrong move at the wrong time.

Americans in Saigon forecast another lengthy period of military uncertainty until the government is stabilized.

U.S. sources said the troop movements and power struggle forced the cancellation of a major operation scheduled for dawn against the Communist Viet Cong guerrillas.

ward. "I did not accept the protest." He termed the U.S. flight deliberate, saying, "We have all grounds to believe that this was not an error or a mistake."

State Department authorities took the line that Kornienko had in fact received the protest because he listened to it, and that it is up to the Soviets to respond whether or not Washington decides to follow through with a written note.

They said representatives from the U.S. military mission at Potsdam, East Germany, had been prevented from going closer than 200 yards to the plane wreckage.

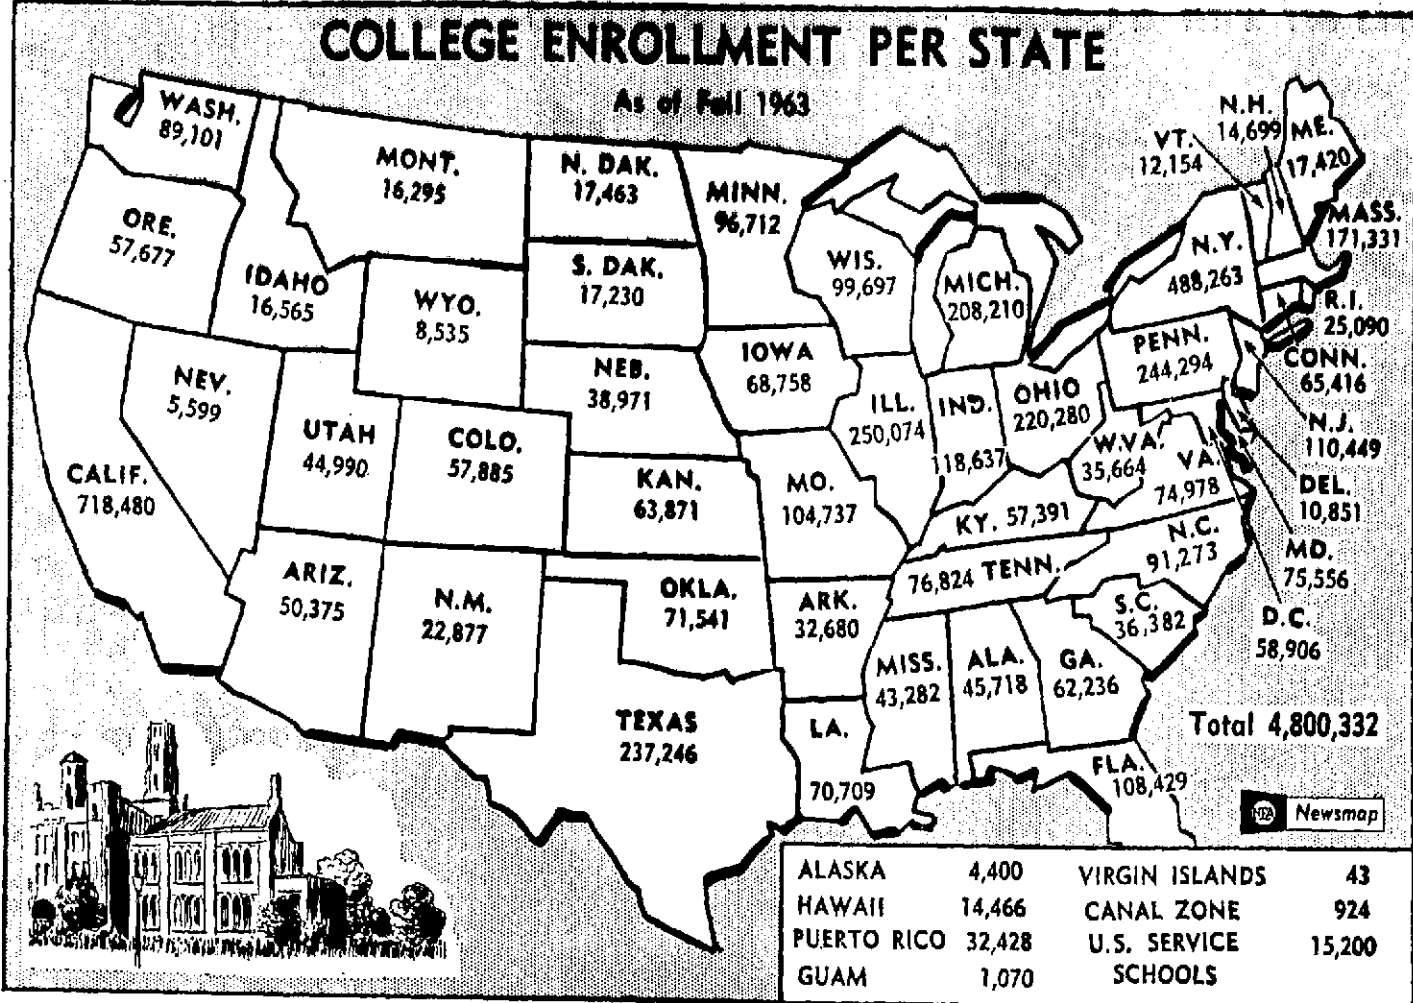

The incident was described by U.S. sources as serious but not as provocative, from the standpoint of East-West relations, as the Soviet shooting of a U.S. RB47 reconnaissance plane over the Barents Sea in 1960. The United States said that plane was attacked over international waters.

Who ordered the attack on the jet trainer was not known here. There was some speculation that the decision may have been made by a local commander.

BERLIN (AP)—A convoy of five U.S. military vehicles left today for Red-ruled East Germany to pick up the bodies of three U.S. Air Force officers and the wreckage of the plane in which they were shot down by the Russians.

An Air Force spokesman said the Russians had granted permission to recover the bodies and the wreckage. The spokesman said the bodies will be brought to West Berlin and then to Wiesbaden in West Germany.

The scene of the crash is about 125 miles southwest of Berlin.

SOARING COLLEGE ENROLLMENT—Last fall, college enrollment reached a new high of 4,800,332. By comparison, in the fall of 1951, college enrollment was a mere 2,116,000. Newsmap above breaks down last fall's enrollment by individual states. Figures are for students going to school, they are not necessarily residents of the state. Of the 2,140 institutions of higher learning in the nation, public institutions claim 3,090,578 students while 1,709,754 are enrolled in privately controlled institutions. Seven of every 11 students are being educated by state support. Of the total number of students, only 1,827,988 are women. All states except Alabama and Vermont showed a higher enrollment in '63 than in '62. Source: U. S. everyone would like to meet at the earliest possible date and get this settled as quickly as possible," Van Dalsem said.

Faubus said it was unlikely that he would take any suggestions to the council. "I'm looking for recommendations from them," he said.

Faubus has been studying the possibility of a special session since last Thursday when South Dakota ratified the 24th Amendment to the U.S. Constitution, outlawing the poll tax in federal elections.

All indications were that the state will now move toward some kind of voter registration system for use in all elections. There has been some talk of splitting federal and state elections, keeping the poll tax for state voting.

Faubus said he could not say at this time how quickly the special session may be called. "That depends on how soon the council can finish its study," he said.

The council is expected to come up with a compromise registration bill acceptable to most legislators. This means the special session could be run off in three or four days.

Bodies to Be Returned to U.S.

FRANKFURT (AP)—Authoritative sources said today the bodies of the three airmen killed when their jet trainer was downed by the Soviet Air Force will be handed over to the United States in West Berlin tonight.

Three U.S. Army ambulances are standing by to receive the bodies.

Lake Under State Jurisdiction

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—The attorney general's office said today that Lake Nearek, a public fishing lake to be constructed in what used to be part of the Mississippi River, will come under the jurisdiction of the Arkansas Game and Fish Commission.

Nelson Cox, director of the Game and Fish Commission, asked for an opinion on whether the lake would come under the authority of Arkansas or Tennessee.

The eastern boundary of Arkansas in the area, just north of Osceola, follows the channel of the Mississippi. Cox said the commission proposes to obtain easements from property owners and needed to know its authority in the area.

The opinion said the change of the river's channel does not affect the state boundary.

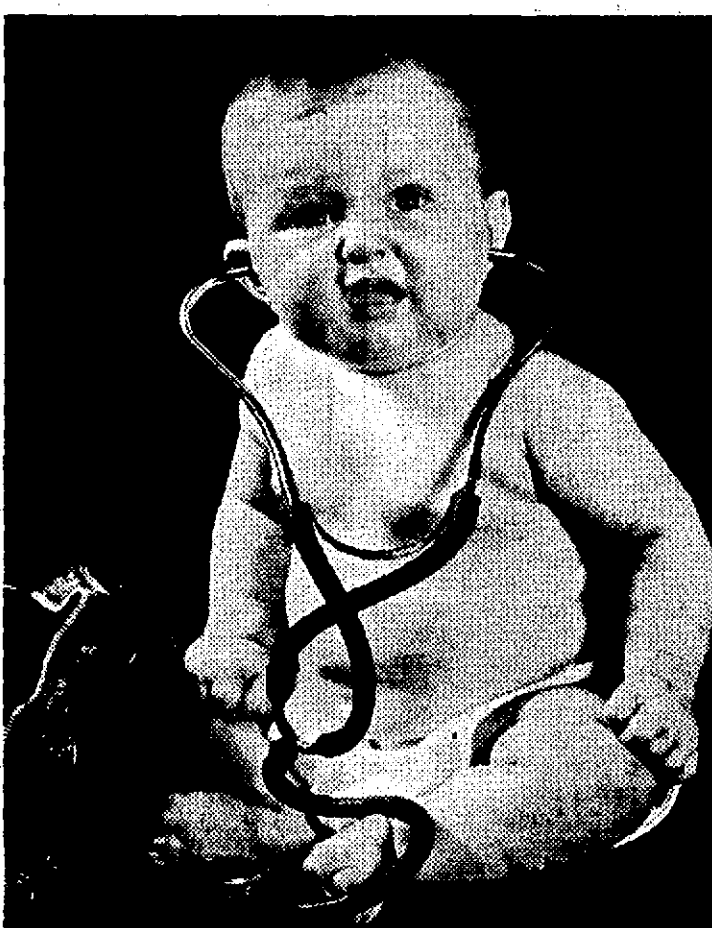

Rain Does Little Against Fires

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—A few scattered showers over the state Wednesday night did little to reduce the critical forest fire threat.

The State Forestry Commission fought 27 fires which destroyed 294 acres Wednesday. Jim Talley, fire chief for the commission, said Wednesday's loss was not too bad considering the dry condition of the woods.

The state has lost 27,492 acres in 890 fires since Jan. 1. Another 10,000 to 15,000 acres have been destroyed in national forests in Arkansas.

Gov. Orval E. Faubus issued a plea Tuesday for Arkansans to stop burning trash and grass until the state gets a general rain.

"You want to be healthier? Happier? I have the right prescription."

One Gets Tired of Hearing a Pal Say, "Have You Been Putting on Weight Lately?"

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—Remarks a man on a diet gets tired of hearing:

"Gee, George, have you been putting on more weight lately?" "I don't see why you make such a fuss about losing weight. All it takes is a little strength—the strength to push yourself away from the table."

"Why bother to take it off? As soon as you quit starving yourself, it comes right back on." "If George ever did some real work, he wouldn't have all that blubber on him in the first place."

"You should be like me. No matter how much I stuff myself, I never seem to gain an ounce." "Maybe you have lost five pounds, George. All I can say is that it still doesn't show."

"I read in a medical journal that only two out of every 100 people who diet themselves slim stay that way—so it looks like you're up against pretty hopeless odds."

"If you didn't have some hidden frustration you probably wouldn't have gotten so fat to begin with. Maybe food is your consolation for some childhood sorrow."

"George has the weirdest dreams lately. Last night, for example, he dreamed he was taking a bath in a tub full of mashed potatoes and coconut custard pudding."

"Why fight it, George? After all, a hippopotamus has just as much fun out of a life as a gazelle. Maybe more."

"I think I'll order the peach parfait for dessert. What'll you have, dear—another radish or a nice carrot?" "At your age, the more weight you lose the more wrinkles you get in your face."

"You mean your doctor only lets you have 1,200 calories a day? My doctor lets me have 1,600 on my diet—and the pounds are simply melting off."

"You're doing fine, George. If you keep on losing an ounce a day, you'll be down to normal weight in about a year and a half—give or take a month."

Links Congo Beatings to Communists

LEOPOLDVILLE, the Congo (AP)—A 43-year-old American missionary said here Congolese terrorists shouted "Russia" and "Moscow" as they beat up a party of U.S. Baptists in a lonely mission in Kwilu Province.

Barton G. Browning said while the mission house blazed after being set afire by armed warriors, a group of terrorists tried to rape his pretty 16-year-old daughter, Kathy. Her mother was a prisoner nearby, with her hands bound.

"Kathy told me later that she found superhuman strength to push them away," Browning said. "Then some of the young warriors who knew her tried to protect her and they all started scrapping among themselves."

Kathy sat silently beside her parents in the U.S. embassy lobby wearing a borrowed dress as her father told how they spent five days of terror camped outside their ruined mission before being rescued Wednesday.

The report of Browning, of the Highland Park Baptist Church in Chattanooga, Tenn., coincided with others that the terrorists, led by former Education Minister Pierre Mulele, 34, have been given Communist indoctrination.

Mulele's men have been making systematic attacks on missions in Kwilu—about 300 miles east of Leopoldville. When the terrorists attacked Kintsha, said Browning, "They said their chiefs had showed them pictures of the wonderful course adjustment motor which was scheduled to be fired about 2:50 a.m. EST Friday. Scientists must calculate from the spacecraft's position and progress just how much of a motor kick is required to adjust for any trajectory errors and put the voyager on a collision course with the moon. The motor will be ignited by radio command from a tracking station at Goldstone, Calif.

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP)—The camera-laden Ranger 6 spacecraft was rocketed toward the moon today on a mission to snap and relay to earth more than 3,000 pictures of the lunar surface.

An Atlas-Agena rocket, 102 feet tall and weighing 150 tons, blasted away from Cape Kennedy at 10:49 a.m. EST to start the 804-pound gold-and-silver-plated craft on its lunar journey.

If all goes well, Ranger 6 will cover 230,187 miles in 66 hours and crash land on the moon early Sunday.

If the payload, which resembles a giant dragonfly, succeeds, it will break a string of 11 straight U.S. moon-launching failures dating to 1958. The flight is the first U.S. lunar attempt since Ranger 5 fizzled in October 1962, prompting a revamping of the program.

The Soviets have announced three moon landings, two of them successful. Lunik 2 crashed onto the moon and Lunik 3 took the first pictures of the moon's hidden side, both in 1959.

In a 10-minute session before Ranger 6 crash-lands on the moon, its six cameras are to snap hundreds of pictures and transmit them to a ground station at Goldstone, Calif. The cameras are to start shooting 900 miles from the moon and continue until an instant before impact.

Project officials said the pictures might enable analysts to distinguish objects on the moon the size of an automobile.

H. M. Schurmeier, Ranger project manager for the space agency's jet propulsion laboratory, said the major goal is to obtain photos of dark areas that from the earth appear to be relatively flat and therefore possible landing spots for astronauts.

Project officials said the pictures might enable analysts to distinguish objects on the moon the size of an automobile.

Snow and Rain Dampen Areas

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Light rain peppered a major portion of Arkansas early today as a warming trend snapped two days of clear, cold weather.

The Weather Bureau predicted showers mostly for the western half of the state, with a chance of thundershowers in the south half through Friday.

Overnight minimums in the state ranged from the 20s to the mid 40s, contrasting with lows down to nine degrees in the northern half Wednesday morning and 20s elsewhere.

Maximums Wednesday were generally in the mid to upper 50s.

The witness did say all the calls, from pay booths, were made on a credit card issued to the Detroit Teamsters local which Hoffa heads. Those from Detroit, he said, were made from a pay booth near Hoffa's home—at a time when the union leader was on trial in Nashville.

The witness, Arthur H. Schneider, Detroit accounts manager for Michigan Bell Telephone Co., said the calls were made in sequence — Detroit pay booth to Louisville, Ky., pay booth, Detroit pay booth to Hoffa's Nashville hotel, Detroit to Louisville again, and Louisville to Detroit.

Schneider also gave Hoffa's Detroit home telephone number—Vermont 7-1426. It was to this number that J. J. Isaacs, Southern Bell Telephone Co.'s district commercial manager in Louisville, testified Wednesday that two telephone calls were made Oct. 22, 1962. This is the date Hoffa's Nashville trial began.

Government prosecutor James Neal, promising to forge "one big solid chain of evidence," said the government will link Hoffa with five others on trial with him on the jury-rigging charges.

All six are accused of trying to influence jurors in the 1962 Nashville trial, which ended with a hung jury.

Neal's promise was made after Harvey Silets, attorney for a defendant, Allen Dorfman, had moved for a mistrial or a separate trial for each defendant.

"In three days of testimony," has not offered one word of testimony or a single exhibit which mentions my client."

The motion was overruled. Ten witnesses and nearly 40 exhibits were presented in U.S. District Court by government to try to connect Larry Campbell and his uncle, Thomas E. Parks, both defendants, with an alleged effort to influence juror Gratin Fields in Hoffa's conspiracy trial.

able landing spots for astronauts. More than 40 observatories around the world planned to direct telescopes at the moon in an effort to spot the Ranger 6 impact. When Russia's Lunik 2 hit, a Hungarian observatory reported sighting a dark cloud — perhaps of dust — in the vicinity of the landing area.

The Liberty Hill Home Demonstration Club will meet Monday, February 3 at 7 p.m. in the home of Mrs. Ervin Betts. All members are urged to attend.

Tuesday, February 4

The Alpha Delta Chapter of Delta Kappa Gamma will meet at 4 p.m. Tuesday, February 4 in the home of Mrs. Phoebe Perkins with Mrs. Belle Klipsch, co-hostess. Each member is asked to bring discarded nylon hose and Christmas cards for the club's Far East project.

Tuesday Bridge Club

A local Tuesday Bridge Club met with Mrs. George Robinson on January 28, and the two tables of players included one club guest, Mrs. L. E. Wallace of Tulsa.

After scores were tallied, Mrs. Syd McMath was declared high scorer, and Mrs. R. L. Broach was second high. Assorted snacks, cold drinks, and coffee were served for refreshments.

Birthday Observance

A 76th birthday celebration was held for Mrs. John Hartsfield on Sunday, January 26 in the home of her daughter, Mrs. S. L. Churchwell. The dinner party also served as a birthday observance of Mr. Churchwell, the hostess' husband.

Some 26 relatives gathered for the occasion, and the honorees received lovely gifts. Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Hartsfield and family came from Arkadelphia and were the only ones from out of town. After dinner, the group enjoyed singing gospel songs led by Jack Hartsfield.

PEO Holds Meet

Mrs. B. N. Holt and Mrs. Jim McKenzie were co-hostesses for the meeting of Chapter AE, P.E.O., Tuesday, January 28 in the Holt home. The president, Mrs. Herbert Stephens, called the meeting to order and heard committee reports.

For the Founders Day program Mrs. Henry Haynes presented a clever "I've Got A Secret" sketch. During the so-

2 Sharp ASC Officials Are Suspended

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The state Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee has suspended two Sharp County ASC officials in connection with an election Jan. 7.

About 215 ballots were burned at Ash Flat then during the county's election of community committeemen.

A. C. Mowery Jr., state ASC head, said those suspended were Wayne Orr, chairman of the Ash Flat ASC community group, and J. T. Orr, chairman of the county committee and brother of Wayne Orr.

The ballots were burned at the climax of a dispute about voting at Ash Flat during the election.

A new election was set March 5 to select the committeemen, who in turn elect the three-member county ASC committee to administer federal farm programs.

Communitists in New Push in E. Africa

By DENNIS NEEDLE

NAIROBI, Kenya (AP) — The Communist bloc is making a determined new drive to win friends and influence people in East Africa.

At the same time the governments of Kenya, Uganda and Tanganyika are playing down a threat of Communist subversion, partly for fear of frightening away foreign investors.

Kenya's leftist information minister, Achieng Onyiah said Wednesday that no evidence was uncovered connecting foreign interference with recent army mutinies in the three newly independent countries.

But Onyiah said that plans for Communist Chinese Premier Chou En-lai to visit Kenya have been canceled. His visit to Tanganyika also was called off. Chou is on an African tour.

Western sources reported the Kenya government is worried that potential foreign investors may view the army mutinies as a serious setback to African stability.

Kenya, Uganda and Tanganyika are eager to attract overseas capital.

It is believed that the three countries also are unwilling to offend the Communist bloc for fear of cutting off a potential source of aid. East Africa in recent months has been the scene of increasing Communist efforts to gain influence at the expense of the West.

A drive is being made on several fronts:

About 500 students from Kenya are attending schools in Communist countries. The figure for all of East Africa is probably more than three times that. When they return, they could play a major role in Communist plans for the area.

Communist countries are constantly rolling out the red carpet for politicians and union leaders from East Africa. Large sums of money also are known to have been paid by the Communists to certain prominent individuals.

The flow of Communist publications, banned by the British colonial government, is increasing. The Communists are also helping the Kenya government set up a news agency.

Communist broadcasts in English and Swahili, the prevailing native tongue, are on the increase. The Russians are building a powerful radio transmitter at Mogadishu, in nearby Somalia.

by Circuit Court Judge Leon V. Hendrick, 69, in an effort to speed the process was the third straight night session.

Judge M. M. McGowan, who substituted for Hendrick at the hearing Wednesday night, cut it off at 10 p.m. after 14 men were called in a futile effort to seat the 12th juror.

Beckwith, 43, a fertilizer salesman from Greenwood, is accused of shooting Medgar Evers, a Negro civil rights leader, from ambush.

Interrogation centered on whether the prospective jurors could suppress any racial prejudice and decide the verdict on the evidence and the law.

Probers Call in Baker's Ex-Partner

WASHINGTON (AP) — Ernest Tucker, law partner and business associate of former Senate aide Robert G. Baker, was called for secret questioning today by the Senate Rules Committee.

So was Francis Law, a local attorney whose name was brought up in testimony about joint stock buying ventures by Baker and Robert F. Thompson, a Texas business executive.

The committee is investigating whether Baker, who resigned under fire Oct. 7 as secretary to the Senate's Democratic majority, engaged in outside business deals that conflicted with his official duties or involved other improprieties.

Tucker is chairman of the Serv-U Corp., a vending machine company in which Baker has claimed to own $1 million worth of stock. A $300,000 damage suit brought by a local vending machine firm against Serv-U, Baker and others led to the committee's investigation.

In contrast to Tucker, regarded as a major witness, Law has been barely mentioned in the hearings so far.

He Believes in Backing Cause

WYNNE, Ark. (AP) — When banker John Watts of Wynne believes in a cause he will go to jail for it.

Wednesday night Watts was "arrested" at a basketball game being played for the March of Dimes and the Heart Fund by the Wynne Lions and Kiwanis Clubs.

Watts vowed to stay in jail the rest of this month unless Wynne residents raise $1,000 for the March of Dimes to pay his fine.

Wednesday night it was apparent he would not get out before today and Watt's wife and daughter, Joness, took him a pillow, toothbrush and teddybear to keep him company.

Only a few pledges were received Wednesday night. One was from Robert M. Vaughan, president of a competitive bank who offered $25 to keep Watts in jail.

Watts was 559 million bushels instead, traders were rocked. The department's figures served as a price depressing development.

How come the government's figures do not jibe? Agriculture officials say their estimate of the size of the crop could have been too small. Or, they say, it is possible that the figures supplied by soybean crushers as to the quality they used during the October-December period could have been off somewhat. Facts will become evident, they said, as the season moves toward a close.

As for the production estimate, the department had forecast soybeans at 727 million bushels as of last Oct. 1. But the final report issued in mid-December cut the figure to 701 million bushels because of weather developments.

Sudden Drop in Price of Soybeans

By OVID A. MARTIN
Associated Press Farm Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation's grain markets showed in a sudden rather sharp drop in soybean prices this week how important a role is played by the government's estimates on production and usage of crops.

The Agriculture Department issued a report Jan. 24 showing that 559 million bushels of soybeans were stored on and off farms on Jan. 1, about 25 million more than grain traders had counted on. Because the report indicated supplies were larger than the market had anticipated, soybean prices dropped 5 cents a bushel shortly after the report was issued and another 10 cents on Jan. 27.

The grain trade had expected the Jan. 1 stocks to be about 54 million bushels. In arriving at this figure, traders had used the department's estimate of a 1963 crop of 701 million bushels and a carryover of about 17 million bushels from previous crops. This gave an indicated total supply of about 718 million bushels for the 1963-crop marketing year ending next Oct. 1.

Reports issued by the Commerce Department showed that from this estimate 717 million-bushel supply, a total of about 184 million bushels had been used domestically and exported during the first three months of the marketing year. Deducting this total usage of 184 million bushels from the total supply of 718 million bushels would leave a supply of about 535 million bushels on Jan. 1.

When the Agriculture Department reported that the supply

Johnson Asks Double Time Pay to Some

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson asked Congress today to approve machinery that would permit double pay for overtime in selected industries in order to fight unemployment.

Johnson also sent to the Senate and House a draft of proposed legislation that would increase overtime and minimum wage protection for more than 2 million workers.

In his State of the Union message Jan. 8, Johnson had first broached the proposal to increase the time-and-a-half overtime pay rate in industries where a higher overtime penalty would promote employment without excessive cost increases.

He did not at that time spell out the procedures for determining how the higher rate would be imposed, nor did he suggest what the higher rate should be.

Train Kills Youth at Grannis, Ark.

DE QUEEN, Ark. (AP) — Richard Muston, 11, of Grannis, was killed Wednesday when a train struck the mule he was riding.

The boy and mule were dragged several hundred yards along the tracks at Grannis, 14 miles north of De Queen, before the train stopped, said Sevier County Coroner Roy Jacks.

Jacks said Muston and his brother were on the mule, but the brother jumped clear. Muston apparently got tangled in the harness, Jacks said.

More Commodities to Welfare Group

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The governor's office was notified by the Welfare Department today that the federal government has relaxed regulations covering issuance of surplus commodities to welfare clients who live in non-assistance households.

Gov. Orval E. Faubus recently discussed with federal authorities in Washington a regulation prohibiting giving of commodities to persons who live with relatives who are not on the welfare rolls.

Faubus got a promise at that time that the regulation would be relaxed.

In addition, Faubus said today, the Agriculture Department now will permit issuance of commodities at the time of application with proof of need to be furnished later and it has raised the amount of income a person or family can have and still draw commodities.

Assessors Against Registration

PINE BLUFF, Ark. (AP) — J. P. Lybrand Jr., president of the Arkansas Assessors Association, said today his organization opposes any voter registration plan that would require county assessors to register voters.

Lybrand, Jefferson County assessor, issued the statement following a suggestion by Pulaski County Rep. J. H. Cottrell Jr. Tuesday that Arkansas voters could be registered easily by using a modified personal property tax form.

Cottrell said he would introduce such a bill if a special session of the legislature is called to provide a means of voter registration to replace the outlawed poll tax.

Lybrand said, "We now have all that we can possibly do in carrying out and administering the duties of the assessor's office as it presently stands."

He said the majority of assessors in Arkansas personally carry out the assessment duties and they could not possibly take on the additional work and do both jobs properly.

Bids Taken on Cutoff Work

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Markham and Brown Co., Dallas, is apparent low bidder, at $45,329, on construction of a control structure for the Brodie Bend cutoff on the Arkansas River.

Army Engineers said work at the site, six miles east of Redfield in Jefferson County, involves construction of 2,425 feet of stonefill dikes on the east bank.

Doubts Soil Bank Plan for Cotton

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Allen J. Ellender, D-La., chairman of the Senate Agriculture Committee, said Wednesday he doubted if his committee, the Senate or Congress would approve a soil bank program for cotton.

Sanctions Destruction of Gooneys

By MALCOLM BARR

HONOLULU (AP) — The nation's top bird lover has sanctioned the destruction of Midway Island's Gooneys — within limits.

The Gooney bird is known technically as a Blackfoot or Laysan albatross. To the Navy flier he is known as a menace. There are 250,000 of the birds squating on Midway Island, a mid-Pacific atoll 1,312 miles northwest of here.

Carl W. Bucheister, president of the Audubon Society was invited to visit Midway by Navy authorities, admittedly nervous that their proposal to kill the big, white birds with gas would raise the ire of bird lovers.

Bucheister returned here with a reassuring message. "They have one of the most humane methods of eliminating the birds. ... and Midway has only a part of the world's population of albatross. If it's necessary in the future to eliminate more of the birds, there is still a good reservoir of albatross on islands leeward."

But Bucheister insisted that three federal bird sanctuaries on the nearby uninhabited atolls of Pearl and Hermes Reef, Lisianski and Lan, must remain "absolute inviolate."

Gassing the gooneys in big trucks is a body blow for the birds who for more than 20 years have resisted all efforts to move them from the two square miles of land they share with 3,000 servicemen and dependents.

The people don't mind having the birds nesting in their yards, playing with the family dog, or making friends with the children. There's even a law making a sailor liable to court-martial if he's caught molesting a Gooney.

But the people of Midway, along with Navy officials, are concerned about the danger to men and aircraft.

Only birds that nest near the runways are being hustled to the gas chamber. They number about 20,000. The remaining 230,000 will be left to their own devices if they behave them selves.

Genn Ahead in 1st Poll in Ohio

By ART PARKS

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Marine Lt. Col. John H. Glenn Jr. was running ahead today in a preference poll of Ohio county Democratic chairmen conducted by The Associated Press.

The first American to orbit the earth, is a candidate for the Democratic nomination for U.S. senator in the May 5 primary against the incumbent senator, Stephen M. Young.

Those who replied to the poll showed a strong sentiment indicated a preference for Glenn from the standpoint of practical politics.

The AP polled all 88 county chairmen and got 44 replies. Given their choice, many asked not to be identified.

Two principal questions were asked: At this time, whom do you favor for the Democratic nomination for U.S. senator, Stephen Young or John Glenn?

The replies: Glenn 27; Young 16; undecided 1.

Assuming Robert Taft Jr. is the Republican nominee, which Democratic candidate would make the better race against him?

The replies: Glenn 31; Young 4; undecided 9.

"Whom do I favor? Young for devotion. Glenn for a winner."

That comment from one chairman seemed to sum up the privately expressed views of those chairmen who welcomed the entry into politics of Glenn.

Bar Association in Conference

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The Arkansas Bar Association opened its mid-year meeting at Little Rock today, with principal emphasis on legal responsibilities of manufacturers or sellers of products causing injury to the buyer.

Among Arkansas suits filed in such cases are one resulting in a $275,000 judgment to an Oklahoman who alleged defective brakes on an English make car caused his injury and the death of the driver in a wreck and a series of suits alleging injury by a drug to lower cholesterol count in blood.

Several legal experts will speak on various facets of the topic of meeting, "Products Liability." The session ends Friday.

Guessed Location Pretty Accurately

CASPER, Wyo. (AP)—Jack Denny, a city public utilities inspector who checked out a water main leak Wednesday, guessed the location pretty accurately.

He parked his truck and climbed out to look around just as the pavement collapsed. It took two hoist trucks to lift his truck out.

Sees Nat'l Flag Race as a Tight One

By FRED HUTCHINSON
Cincinnati Reds

(4th of a series of team prospects for 1964, written under the manager's own bylines)
SEATTLE (AP)—I believe the National League pennant race in 1964 will be a tight dog-eat-dog battle right down to the wire as it has been in the past several seasons.

We could be improved. We had good pitching last year. Jim Maloney, 23-7; Jim O'Toole 17-14; Joe Nuxhall, 15-8 and John Tsitouris, 12-8 came through for us. Bob Purkey, 6-10, and Joey Jay, 7-18, did not measure up to their 1962 efforts, but still our pitching was not bad and I look for improvement in that department.

Our relief pitching wasn't as productive as it should have been. At times, it was all right but it was not consistent. Too many times it was downright shaky. We lost a lot of games in the late innings that we would have won with better relief pitching.

We fell down in other departments, too, both defensively and offensively. Gordy Coleman at first fell off in his batting, home runs and run production. So did Leo Cardenas at shortstop. We had a season long problem at third base.

And Frank Robinson, our big power man, batted only .259, far down for such a hitter. In fairness to Robby, he was hampered by injuries. He was sidelined from time to time and went to bat 482 times, compared to 609 at bats in 1962.

I look for Robby to make a comeback in 1964. He is too good a hitter to have a second straight off year. And I think we will be better at third base. There should be a mad scramble for the regular job.

We have Chico Rul, who did so well at San Diego; Tommy Harper, who played the outfield for us last year; and Deron Johnson, who led the Pacific Coast League in home runs with San Diego last year. Harper played third base at San Diego in 1962.

We did have some bright spots in 1962. Vada Pinson had a real fine season, leading the club in batting and just about all other offensive departments. He is still young and should have his best years ahead.

We were fortunate also to have two rookies come through for us—Pete Rose, who batted .273 and played exceedingly well in the field to win the NL Rookie

Thinks Plan Would Allow Self-Rule

By G. MILTON KELLY
WASHINGTON (AP)—Baseball Commissioner Ford Frick endorsed today a bill proposing uniform antitrust exemptions for professional baseball, football, basketball and hockey.

He told the Senate Antitrust and Monopoly subcommittee he understood the measure would permit continued self-regulation by baseball, extend the same right to the other sports and end confusion now surrounding their antitrust status.

Self-regulation by baseball, Frick said in prepared testimony, "has well served the public and the game."

The confusion Frick mentioned stems from Supreme Court decisions which have exempted baseball from antitrust regulation since 1922 but not the other sports.

The prepared statements of all concerned in the hearings remained strictly silent on a temper-sparking issue which interested all of them—the efforts of Charles O. Finley, owner of the Kansas City Athletics, to move his American League team to Louisville or Oakland. The league has refused to permit him to move, and Finley has threatened to sue.

Sen. Edward V. Long, D-Mo., told a reporter the subcommittee had notified Finley's lawyers that Finley would be welcome if he cared to testify about his troubles. Long said there has been no indication Finley will show up at these or later hearings.

Chairman Philip A. Hart, D-Mich., had announced the subcommittee would invite but not compel testimony from Finley. Hart, in a statement for the hearing, warned baseball moguls that Congress has an eye on the imbalance in baseball which sees some clubs chronic losers, others equally chronic

Warriors in Two Wins Without West

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
San Francisco's Warriors might lose basketball games, but they're not letting anyone beat them at opportunism.

The Warriors have played two games since Los Angeles' Jerry West broke a thumb and have won both while the Lakers have lost two.

That success at opportunism has pushed the Warriors to a point just 1 1/2 games behind the first-place Lakers in the Western Division of the National Basketball Association.

San Francisco picked up Boston Wednesday night for a 100-92 decision. Philadelphia downed Los Angeles 102-97 in the first game of the Boston double-header.

The Warriors vaulted into second place in the west, one-half game ahead of St. Louis which wasn't so opportunistic, losing to New York 105-104 on Johnny Egan's last-minute basket.

As usual, Wilt Chamberlain provided the power for San Francisco. Chamberlain scored 28 points and snared 22 rebounds.

It was the first time San Francisco has beaten the Celtics in Boston since the Warriors moved to the West Coast. It also was only the second loss for Boston in 19 home games this season.

San Francisco wasn't behind after the early minutes of play but had to hold off a late Boston rally sparked by Tom Heinsohn.

Los Angeles led Philadelphia at halftime 49-43, but Larry Costello's play-making led the 76ers to the triumph. When Costello left the game with a twisted left ankle early in the fourth quarter Philadelphia led 81-77.

Hal Greer paced the 76ers' offensive attack, scoring 26 points. Elgin Baylor had 34 points, but the Lakers' again obviously missed the talented West.

St. Louis was headed for an apparent victory with a 10-point lead early in the fourth period. But Egan, Bob Boozer and Art Heyman sparked the Knicks who allowed the Hawks only four points in the last six minutes.

Boozer's two free throws with one minute left cut St. Louis' lead to one point, and a stolen ball set up Egan's winning shot with 46 seconds left. Egan finished with 26 points.

Davidson Is Beaten for the First Time

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Associated Press Sports Writer
In one of college basketball's oddest incidents of the season the Davidson Wildcats saw their perfect 15-0 record go by the boards on a goal-tending call by the referee as the final buzzer sounded.

It gave the West Virginia Mountaineers, beaten eight times in 17 previous games, an upset 75-73 victory over the nation's third-ranked Wildcats and started a heated controversy.

The unusual finish highlighted a busy Wednesday night on college hardwoods marked also by St. John's of New York's upset 64-60 triumph over Creighton, the four-overtime 97-95 victory of Holy Cross over Boston University and the 101-64 rout of Western Michigan by Chicago Loyola, the only other team in The Associated Press Top Ten to see action.

Marty Lentz, Fred Hetzel and referee Otis Almond were the central figures in the closing seconds of the Davidson-West Virginia struggle at Charleston, W. Va.

This was the situation: Charlie Marcon of Davidson had tied the score with only five seconds left. With two seconds to go Lentz got a pass at mid-court, whirled and let fly with a long heave. Big Fred Hetzel, Davidson's star, leaped into the air and grabbed the ball above the basket as it came down.

The final buzzer and Almond's whistle sounded at the same time. He ruled Hetzel with goal-tending and awarded West Virginia the winning basket.

Davidson's defeat in the Southern Conference battle left top-ranked UCLA, 15-0, and ninth-ranked DePaul, 13-0, as the only major unbeaten teams.

Georgia beat Virginia Tech 96-87, Penn surprised St. Joseph's of Philadelphia 66-51, New York University downed Santa Clara 79-64, Florida State whipped Alabama 95-77, Tulsa rallied to overcome Missouri 94-79 and Louisiana State defeated New Orleans Loyola 73-62 in other Wednesday games.

Randy Cross threw in 46 points for Boston U., but in a losing cause as Holy Cross won in the fourth overtime on a free throw with 84 seconds left. The regulation game ended 72-72. It was 80-80 after the first extra period, 86-86 after the second and 88-88 after the third.

Vic Rouse, who has been out with a bad shoulder, saw part-time action for Chicago Loyola and racked up 12 points and got nine rebounds against Western Michigan.

and Ball State 90-83 last week. Grambling dropped into the No. 2 position with two first place votes and 56 points. The Tigers' initial setback came in an overtime, 129-124 last Saturday.

Kentucky Wesleyan, despite its loss to Evansville, remained in third place with 51 points. Pan American advanced from ninth to fourth after losing 84-77 to strong St. Bonaventure, a major opponent. The Texans are 13-3.

Finns Grab the Second Gold Medal

By TED SMITS
Associated Press Sports Editor

INNSBRUCK, Austria (AP)—Austria's dashing Egon Zimmerman flashed to a course record victory in the men's downhill ski race — a glamor event of the Olympics — and America's high hopes crumbled on a sour note today in the ninth Winter Games.

Three more championships were in the ninth Winter Olympics Games. The United States is still without a medal.

The bitterest disappointment came in the downhill, where the two seeded U.S. aces, Billy Kidd of Stowe, Vt., and Bud Werner of Steamboat Springs, Colo., finished far out of the running. One of Uncle Sam's unheralded skiers, Annibale (Nii) Orsi, a 19-year-old student from Stockton, Calif., turned in the best clocking, 2 minutes, 21.59 seconds for 14th place.

The favored Zimmerman's winning time was 2:18.17, the fastest ever down the precipitous, 3,412-yard Mount Patscherkofel where a young Australian met his death in training last week.

Kidd, Werner and another U.S. veteran skier, Chuck Ferries of Houghton, Mich., barricaded themselves behind a police barrier immediately after the disappointing race and refused to talk to newsmen.

Reporters who sought interviews were rouged up by the guards. Kidd's time was 2:21.82 for 16th, Werner's 2:22.05 for 17th, and Ferries' 2:23.00 for 20th.

Prior to the race the American contingent had protested strongly against the omission of any of their skiers from the top seeded group. International ski officials finally gave in and put Kidd and Werner in the top 16.

A 26-year-old Finnish border customs employee, Eero Maentyranta, won the 30-kilometer, 18.6 miles—ski race in 1 hour, 30 minutes, 50.7 seconds and scored a record-smashing 1-2-3 sweep in the women's 500-meter speed skating event.

The United States made its best showing of the day in the women's 500-meter speed skating race, a European specialty, with Jeanne Ashworth of Lake Placid, N.Y., and Jan Smith of Rochester, N.Y., tying for fourth place.

The gold medal was won by the husky Lidia Skoblikova, a double winner in the 1960 games at Squaw Valley, Calif., in 45 seconds flat. She and two of her teammates — Irina Yegorova, 45.4, and Tatiana Sidorova, 45.5, all beat the Olympic record of 45.9 set by Helga Haase of East Germany four years ago. The two American girls clocked 46.2.

The Yanks never were in contention in the 30-kilometer ski race, traditionally dominated by Scandinavians.

Mike Elliott, the 21-year-old Fort Lewis College student from Durango, Colo., finished 30th in 1 hour, 40 minutes, 11.7 seconds for the best U.S. showing.

Dick Taylor of Laconia, N.H., was 42nd in 1:42:39.5; Larry Damon of Burlington, Vt., 46th in 1:42:57.7, and Jim Shea of Lake Placid, N.Y., 48th in 1:43:18.4.

Marie Lawler, a 19-year-old high school girl from Minneapolis, showed a lot of spunk by competing in the women's speed skating race despite an overnight attack of shin splints, a form of muscle ailment. She clocked 46.6 for seventh place.

Maentyranta, who many observers said was washed up, was flushed and tired after completing the more than 18-mile ski course.

pion crossed the line more than a full minute ahead of the runner-up, Harald Groenningen, a Norwegian farmer who was a doubtful starter until the last minute. Groenningen was clocked in 1:32.03.

In third place came Igor Voronchikhin of the Soviet Union, in 1:32:15.8, followed by Janne Stefansson of Sweden, in 1:32:34.8. Sweden's Sixten Jernberg, who won the title at the Squaw Valley, Calif., Olympics in 1960, finished fifth in 1:32:39.6.

The second day of the big ice and snow carnival started under ideal conditions, with the temperature at 5 degrees. The skies were clear.

A total of 69 skiers from 18 nations took off on the exhausting race, staged over two loops on the hard-packed track west of Seefeld.

As the men sped, one after another, over the 18.6 miles, women figure skaters were tracing their first compulsory designs at the Ice Stadium.

The Soviets took the first gold medal Wednesday night in a competition, figure skating, where just a few years ago they were among the also-rans.

The 500-meter speed skating was one of three events in which gold medals were at stake today. The other two were the men's 30-kilometer cross country Nordic ski race and the men's downhill Alpine ski race on the dangerous course of Mt. Patscherkofel.

For the fans, the downhill was the big event. More than 80 skiers were entered in the test, considered by many ski experts as the supreme trial of strength and endurance for skiers.

One skier was killed and several were injured during pre-Olympic training on the Patscherkofel course, packed by hand with snow carried to snow-short Innsbruck from other Alpine areas.

Wednesday's colorful opening ceremony and parade of competitors was followed by only limited competition.

But that competition—in ice hockey and figure skating—was enough to demonstrate the caliber of the Russian entries.

Ludmila Belousova and Oleg Protopopov won the pairs gold medal in figure skating, upsetting the favored world champions from Germany, Marika Kilius and Hans Juergen Baerlein. It was the first time the Russians had ever won a figure skating medal.

AFL Reaches Status of Major League

By TED MEIER
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—After four years of travel the American Football League has reached major league status.

"The greatest day" in the history of the eight-team circuit came Wednesday with the signing of a $36 million, five-year television contract with the National Broadcasting Company.

The pact is effective with the 1965 season and replaces the current TV contract with the American Broadcasting Company which runs through the 1964 season for $2.3 million.

The $36 million, which breaks down into nearly $1 million yearly for each of the eight AFL clubs, compares to the record $28.2 million two-year television contract signed last week by the rival National Football League with the Columbia Broadcasting Company.

The NFL pact breaks down to slightly more than $1 million a year for each of the 14 teams in the older circuit which has been operating for 43 years.

"This is our greatest day," exclaimed an elated Billy Sullivan, president of the AFL and also of the Boston Patriots.

Commissioner Joe Foss and the other club owners in New York, Buffalo, Houston, San Diego, Denver, Oakland and Kansas City joined in the enthusiasm.

"This is another step forward for the AFL which has improved its position yearly since its formation in 1960," declared Foss who negotiated the pact with Carl Lindemann, Jr. vice president of sports for NBC.

"This contract puts all of our present clubs in the black and means we can really start thinking about expansion."

The commissioner disclosed that the AFL has received applications from four groups in Philadelphia as well as from those in Chicago, Los Angeles, Cincinnati, Columbus, Montreal, Portland, Ore., and Atlanta.

At the NFL meeting in Miami Beach, Fla. there was no official comment from any club owner and Pete Rozelle, NFL commissioner, said merely that "we are concerned only with our own National Football League and we are very happy."

The NFL had reasons to be happy, too, with its two-year $28.2 million television deal with the Columbia Broadcasting System. Each of the 14 clubs will get about $1 million.

Pro football will cost the television networks about $25 million this year. In addition to the $14.1 million for the NFL and $7.2 million for the AFL, the two title games, still open for bids, probably will be worth about $2 million each. A head-on conflict every Sunday afternoon is in prospect with each network showing pro double-headers from coast to coast.

The television news shadowed the normal routine at the NFL meetings.

Ordele Braase of the Baltimore Colts, new president of the NFL Players Association, appeared before the owners Wednesday and asked that the players be paid $100 a game for pre-season exhibition instead of the present $50. He also asked for player representation on the pension committee.

Two suggestions to alter the playing rules were turned down by the owners one would have assessed a 15-yard penalty for offside, instead of five yards, when a defensive player knocked down the offensive quarterback.

Another would have created a position for a sixth official to synchronize the scoreboard clock with the official clock on the field.

Roman Brother Derby Favorite

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Roman Brother, the colt some Floridians think will win the Kentucky Derby, made his first start of the year at Hialeah Wednesday and finished third in a field of eight.

Roman Brother gave away from five to nine pounds to rivals, packing out weight of 122 in the seven-furlong feature. He was ridden by Manuel Ycaza, who came from California to do the job.

The race was won by Green-tree Stable's Delirium under 117 pounds in the modest time of 1:24 2-5. High Finance finished second.

$36 Million Pretty Fair AFL Contract

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Sports Writer

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP)—The American Football League is here to stay. That is the hard-to-swallow fact that owners of National Football League clubs had to admit today in the wake of the rival pro league's new $36 million television contract.

"The new television contract stabilizes the other league," said an NFL club official who wished to remain anonymous. "It gives them substance. Now they are big league."

The day when the two league champions may meet in a title playoff still may be far in the future. At least there was no inclination to hasten the day at the NFL meetings which end today.

"We have no such plans," said Commissioner Pete Rozelle just as he had been saying for weeks and months.

Asked to comment on the new AFL contract, Rozelle said only, "We are concerned only with our own National Football League. And we are very happy."

The NFL had reasons to be happy, too, with its two-year $28.2 million television deal with the Columbia Broadcasting System. Each of the 14 clubs will get about $1 million.

Pro football will cost the television networks about $25 million this year. In addition to the $14.1 million for the NFL and $7.2 million for the AFL, the two title games, still open for bids, probably will be worth about $2 million each. A head-on conflict every Sunday afternoon is in prospect with each network showing pro double-headers from coast to coast.

The television news shadowed the normal routine at the NFL meetings.

Ordele Braase of the Baltimore Colts, new president of the NFL Players Association, appeared before the owners Wednesday and asked that the players be paid $100 a game for pre-season exhibition instead of the present $50. He also asked for player representation on the pension committee.

Two suggestions to alter the playing rules were turned down by the owners one would have assessed a 15-yard penalty for offside, instead of five yards, when a defensive player knocked down the offensive quarterback.

Another would have created a position for a sixth official to synchronize the scoreboard clock with the official clock on the field.

Grambling Loses First Place Hold

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
The Evansville, Ind., Aces regained first place from Grambling in The Associated Press' small-college basketball poll Thursday. The Aces won two games last week while the Tigers from Louisiana had their 16-game unbeaten streak snapped by Arkansas AM&N.

Evansville, 12-2 through last Saturday's games, collected five first place votes and 67 points in the balloting by a special regional panel of seven writers and broadcasters. The Aces beat Kentucky Wesleyan 81-69 winners. There has been grumbling off and on that teams rich in talent tend to trade good players only among themselves, presumably because weaker clubs have little top notch talent to trade off.

and Ball State 90-83 last week. Grambling dropped into the No. 2 position with two first place votes and 56 points. The Tigers' initial setback came in an overtime, 129-124 last Saturday.

Kentucky Wesleyan, despite its loss to Evansville, remained in third place with 51 points. Pan American advanced from ninth to fourth after losing 84-77 to strong St. Bonaventure, a major opponent. The Texans are 13-3.

Holstra held fifth place with 33 points followed by Washington of St. Louis 31, Wittenberg 19, Assumption, Mass., 16, Western Carolina 15 and Fresno State 14. Points were awarded on a basis of 10 for a first place vote, eight for second, etc.

Red Chinese Trying to Box-in U.S.

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Red Chinese are either backing down on their resistance to a "two-China" policy or they are going to try to use American allies and friends, and even neutrals, to put this country in a box.

The problem of Red China promises to make 1964 a mixed up, goofy, and turbulent year. It started Monday when France recognized the Red Chinese, meaning it recognized them as the legitimate rulers of all mainland China.

France did this against the expressed wishes of its American ally which backs Chiang Kai-shek who claims his Nationalist government on Formosa is the only legitimate government both of Formosa and the mainland.

From a realistic standpoint this is a fiction and has been for years. The United States got thrown into it and then got stuck with it.

The Reds defeated Chiang and his armies and drove him from the mainland to Formosa 100 miles offshore in 1949 after this country had given up helping him because his government was corrupt and useless.

He has been on Formosa ever since and could never get back to the mainland without American help, which isn't being given him, although this country is pledged to defend him from a Red Chinese invasion.

The Reds not only control the mainland, with its 700 million people, but show absolutely no sign of losing control. There are 11 million people on Formosa.

When Chiang first fled to Formosa, the United States washed its hands of him, said it wouldn't defend him from Red Chinese attack. It made him an ally, and agreed to defend him, only after the Korean war began.

Now comes the odd part, the only point on which Chiang and the Reds agree. Both insist Formosa and the mainland are not two separate Chinas but just two parts of one China.

Both claim to be the legitimate rulers of the one big China. Everything gets murky after that.

The Reds until now have insisted they wanted no recognition of their right to boss the mainland from any country recognizing the sovereignty of Chiang's government over Formosa.

Chiang has insisted on the same thing, but the other way around. To do otherwise, both argue, would be to admit there are two Chinas instead of one.

Forty-eight countries now recognize the Red Chinese, including some of this country's North Atlantic Treaty Organization allies: Britain, Norway, Denmark, the Netherlands. Now suddenly there appears to be a switch.

Red China is accepting recognition from France which also recognizes Chiang's government. It may be they hope outraged Chiang will disown the French recognition, although this country insists he must not.

If such a hope is not the real basis for the Reds' acceptance of the dual French recognition, then the Communists seem to be abandoning their long-stated policy against the "two-China" recognition.

What could they hope to gain? If other countries flock behind France, particularly American allies, in recognizing Red China it should weaken this country's anti-Communist China position and cause trouble with friends.

For years this country has failed in trying to isolate the Red Chinese from the rest of the world, diplomatically and economically. Why the American attitude?

Several reasons: Anger over Red China's part in the Korean war; hostility of Red China to this country, particularly because of American support and defense of Chiang; the fear that the more influential and respectable Red China becomes, the more Southeast Asian countries will lose their will to resist communism.

The Red Chinese have said they want no dealings with this country until it abandons Chiang. Thus the two countries.

The Black Sea, an inland body of water bounded by the U.S.S.R., Rumania, Bulgaria and Turkey, was supposedly given its name by the Turks who feared its open stormy expanse of water. To the ancients, however, it was known as the "hospitable sea" and the Greeks colonized its shores in 7 B.C.

Takes Eight Years to Make the Met

By BOB THOMAS

AP Movie-Television Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Mary Costa made it to the Met this month, and the critics hailed her as an overnight success.

That brought a wry smile to the beautiful soprano, who started training eight years ago for her debut in America's most prestigious opera house.

You may remember Mary. She was the girl with Bill Lundigan who sold cars on the "Climax" television show for three years. She started studying serious singing during those times, and her friends thought it was nice that Mary had a hobby. Only she and a few others realized it was more than that.

"I knew I had a natural voice," she said, "but I also knew it would take a great deal of training."

Train she did, to the loss of her career as a pitchgirl and actress. Five years ago, folks were surprised to learn that Mary's hobby had led to roles with the San Francisco Opera. Later the Metropolitan put in a bid.

She held off making the big plunge until she felt she and the time were ready.

Finally, impresario Rudolph Bing offered her the starring role in "La Traviata" and told her: "You would be very capricious to turn me down this time, since it is a role with which you are completely familiar."

So Mary took the assignment — and found that time did not allow a rehearsal onstage.

"That's where I think my television training came in handy. I wasn't at all nervous about hitting the right marks on the stage. And the people in the chorus were darling about helping me. When there was a pause in the music, they'd whisper, 'Now move to your right about 10 feet,' and so forth."

Despite such matters, Mary won enormous acclaim. She'll return to the Met in "La Traviata" again this season, and her operatic future looks golden.

This week she was back at her home base to appear on ABC's "Hollywood Palace" show which will appear Saturday night.

One thing marred Mary's triumph. Shortly after she returned from the Met, she announced the parting from her husband, film director Frank Tashlin, who helped and encouraged her in the years of training. Her frequent absences and the divergence of their careers was given as the reason. No divorce plans have been made, and there is hope that their problems may work out.

Viet Nam Convicts Six for Spying

TOKYO (AP) — A North Viet Nam military court has convicted six men of spying for the United States and given them sentences ranging from 4 to 15 years in prison, the New China News Agency reported today.

the United States and Red China are in one of the worst dilemmas of modern times.

This isn't all. Now the Red Chinese can be expected to push for admittance to the United Nations, over American opposition, where Chiang's government has one of the five permanent seats on the Security Council.

The main purpose of the Red Chinese at the moment would seem to be to use some device to weaken American prestige and influence and, in short, change the course of events.

Besides, after their split with the Soviet Union, the Red Chinese need to look elsewhere for help in supplies and trade, if not in arms.

State Getting Big Cut of River Money

By GORDON BROWN

WASHINGTON (AP) — In view of Arkansas' comparatively large share of water projects appropriations, it will be difficult for the state's congressional delegation to go before the appropriations committees and plead for increases.

It also might be difficult to ask for more in the face of the President's drive for economy, particularly since Arkansas has been regarded as among those areas insisting on fiscal responsibility in the federal government.

Arkansas is budgeted for $114 million in the Army Engineer requests for $1.1 billion for water projects. Although a year's delay in completion of the Arkansas River navigation channel is contemplated by some under the budget recommendations, Arkansans in the capital generally are pleased by the state's shape in the proposed spending program.

Sen. John L. McClellan, D-Ark., a member of the Senate Appropriations Committee, hasn't foreclosed the possibility of seeking some increases although he has indicated strongly he wants to go along with the economy move.

But even should funds for the navigation project be increased, Army Engineers have said it might be difficult to make up the lost time. They have said the program as recommended in the budget is in balance — meaning that the rate of progress for both the navigation locks and dams and the big multiple purpose dams are timed to go along together. They observe that it would be useless to speed construction of the big dams if work on the smaller navigation locks and dams lagged — and

Evidence Johnson Did Cut Budget

WASHINGTON (AP) — Evidence arrived Tuesday that President Johnson really did cut the federal budget.

The Budget Bureau released the "appendix" to Johnson's fiscal 1965 budget message. The book is 1,165 pages long, a saving of 30 pages from a year ago. The appendix is, in fact, the budget—the annual blueprint for every dollar of estimated government income and spending. This one weighs over five pounds.

vice versa.

This means that if the program is to be speeded to make the 1970 target possible there must be large increases in budget amounts for the locks and dams and for the three big dams now underway — Ozark, Kerr and Webber Falls.

While Arkansas is budgeted for $114 million it still ranks second to the $133 million sought for Washington State.

U.S. Suits Name Former Ambassador

BOSTON (AP) — The Department of Justice has filed a $4.8-million damage suit against three firms, including one headed by Matthew H. McCloskey, former ambassador to Ireland and treasurer of the Democratic National Committee.

McCloskey, appointed to the Dublin post by President John F. Kennedy in 1962, resigned recently to help the Democrats raise funds for this year's campaign.

In Dublin, an embassy spokesman said McCloskey would have no comment on the suit.

The suit, filed Monday in U.S. District Court, asked $4,818,577 from McCloskey & Co. of Philadelphia, charging the firm with extensive defects in construction of the 15-story, 920-bed Veterans Administration hospital in the Jamaica Plain section of Boston.

The company was awarded a $10,563,000 contract in 1950. The hospital was completed in June 1962.

Also named in the suit were Charles T. Main Inc. of Boston, engineering consultants, and the Boston architectural firm of Shepley, Bulfinch, Richardson and Abbott. The government said these two firms were paid $619,000.

Additional damages of $2.5 million were sought from Aetna Casualty and Surety Co., which wrote the performance bond for the McCloskey firm's work.

The suit charged the McCloskey company "made numerous departures from the contract design, drawings, plans and specifications, provided defective workmanship and deficient equipment and materials, failed to provide proper supervision and superintendence or competent foremen or superintendents."

State Missionary Listed Missing

TEXARKANA, Ark. (AP) — A native of Arkansas is among the American missionaries in the Congo, near where rebel guerrillas have slain at least four missionaries since last week. Her family said her fate is unknown.

Miss Noreen Robken, a native of Texarkana, operated a mission school near Lodja in a remote area 300 miles east of Leopoldville and about 200 miles west of the area where the other missionaries were slain.

One of the missionaries was an American woman — Miss Irene Ferrel. The others were men.

Miss Robken is a veteran of 20 years of Methodist missionary work in the Congo, and her brother, Fred L. Robken Sr. of Texarkana, said his sister and other women were the only white persons in the area.

Cigarette Sales Banned in Few Areas

NEW YORK (AP)—Officials of several states have banned the sale of cigarettes in some government buildings, including hospitals.

They cite reports by the U.S. surgeon general, and private research, on the health hazards of smoking cigarettes.

Some private hospitals also have ordered cigarette vending machines removed. Miriam Hospital in Providence, R. I., put up signs saying: "We do not sell cigarettes. We love you too much."

In many areas, public officials ordered strict enforcement of laws, some decades old, against selling cigarettes to minors.

The National Association of Broadcasters, meeting in Florida, is expected to amend its code of self-regulation to forbid programs or commercials that might tend to encourage young people to smoke.

The major television and radio networks have said they are reviewing their policies on commercials.

A survey by The Associated Press indicated today that efforts by government officials to discourage smoking by educational campaigns are fairly widespread. Outright bans of cigarette sales are less prevalent.

Public Health hospitals in Massachusetts have been ordered to discontinue sales of cigarettes in canteens and to remove vending machines.

Pennsylvania banned cigarette sales in its four hospitals for tuberculosis and is considering banning them in the state's general and mental hospitals.

California's Public Health Department banned cigarette vending machines from all its buildings last July after a state report on smoking hazards.

The University of Minnesota's hospitals and the Rochester (N.Y.) Institute of Technology have banned cigarette machines.

New York State and California are among the states that plan to tell school children about the hazards of smoking.

Recovery in Steel to Aid U.S. Economy

By ROGER LANE
AP Business News Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—A recovery in the steel industry that began last year is gathering momentum. It promises to impart important strength to the nation's humming economy.

Improved profit reports on 1963 are flowing in from all major producers. Some reflect dramatic gains. The mills, working steadily faster, are turning out steel at a near-record rate of 115 million tons a year.

Modernized plants with new tools and technology are increasing efficiency, helping to lower costs and boost earnings.

Last year's modest price increases are augmenting profits and providing funds for further modernization. Also contributing to funds for improved facilities are federal depreciation rules, which were liberalized in 1962.

Some leading steel companies spurred higher on the stock market again Tuesday after Youngstown Sheet & Tube Co. proposed a 3-for-1 stock split and just before U.S. Steel Corp. reported sharply higher earnings.

U.S. Steel, posting the best results since 1960, reported earnings of $202.9 million or $3.28 a share, up from $163.7 million or $2.56 a share from 1962. Still, "Big Steel" profits were less than half 1957's record level.

With only Bethlehem Steel Corp. and Jones & Laughlin Steel Corp. among the top eight producers to be heard from, net income for the others came to $438 million, up nearly one third from the $365.1 million they reported in 1962.

National Steel Corp., the fourth ranking company, set a record profit last year. Profit reached $63.8 million to eclipse

TV Reshuffle Seen, Some Shows Shaky

By CYNTHIA LOWR Y
AP Television-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—Television viewers may steel themselves for a major reshuffling of network programs next season, with an anticipated 40 per cent death rate among the shows now occupying prime time.

The normal rate of attrition averages about 30 per cent per season.

Among the programs in shaky condition now, according to the authoritative Broadcasting Magazine, are "Sing Along with Mitch," "Rawhide," and "The Joey Bishop Show" which have been around for several seasons. Among the new shows which probably will disappear after one short season are "The New Phil Silvers Show," "Grindl," "The Lieutenant." All are receiving low audience ratings.

Television's new program interest for next season appears to be the James Bond type of hero. Bond is the super-secret agent of a popular series of books by British author Ian Fleming. He constantly and single-handedly saves the world from dangerous foreign powers. He also is a smooth, suave, man-of-the-world with distinctive tastes in weapons, food and beautiful women.

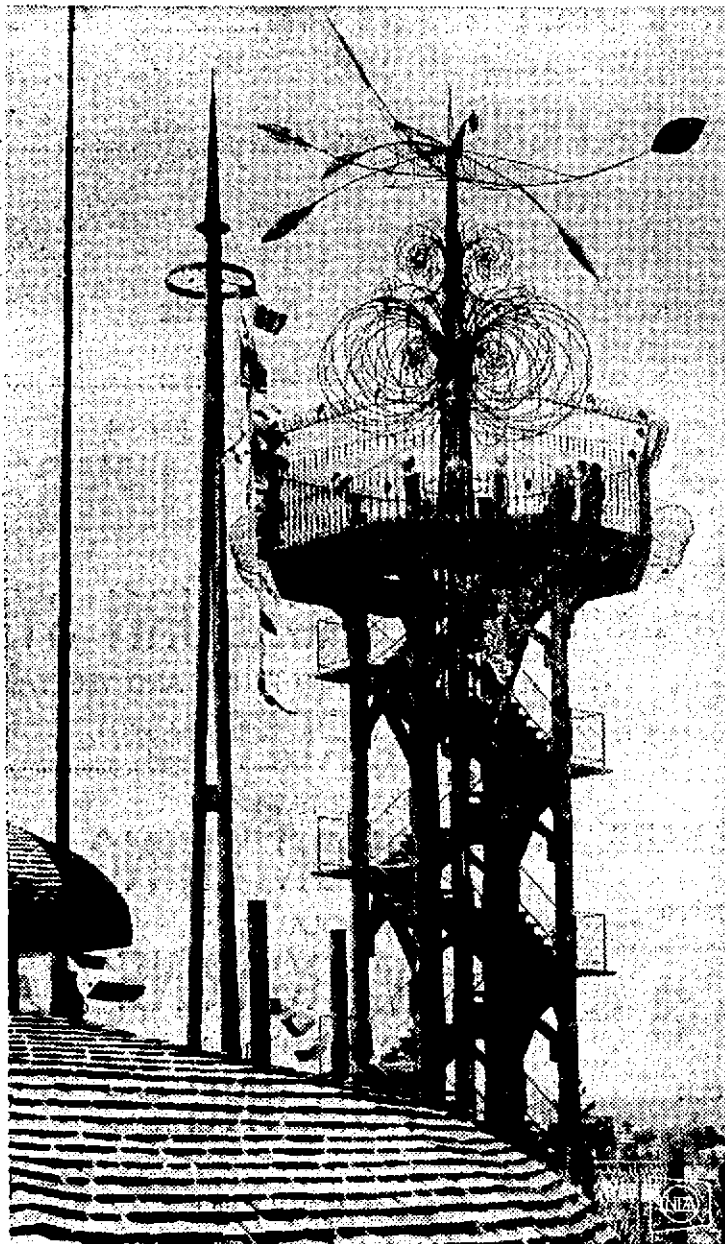

As Fleming writes it, it is pure, uncomplicated escape with comic overtones. The flavor will be hard to convert to the home screens.

Nothing daunted, however, NBC expects to present "Mr. Solo," a character created by Fleming himself. CBS has two—"Mark Dolphin" and "Dr. Stryker." There are more on the drafting boards.

Meanwhile, if programs must be switched viewers would appreciate changes which would move some of the more popular 10-11 p.m. programs into earlier time slots — "The Danny Kaye Show," for one.

It would also be pleasant if they would take "Perry Mason" out of competition with "Dr. Kildare," and give us a chance to watch both "The Garry Moore Show" and "The Fugitive," currently opposite each other.

CBS announced Monday that Carol Burnett will be returning next season in a new, weekly variety hour in an early evening spot. Carol will appear in three out of every four programs, and the plan is to gather a star-

Group Airing State Science Foundation

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—James Webb, administrator of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, met with Arkansas business leaders and congressmen today to discuss a proposed Arkansas Science Foundation.

W. M. Shepherd, vice president of Arkansas Power & Light Co., said he called the meeting "to explore ways that Arkansas' long-range growth can be strengthened through increased technological and research advances."

Shepherd said the Arkansas leaders discussed with Webb and the congressmen the possibilities of organizing an Arkansas Science Foundation through which science education and research could be encouraged in all Arkansas educational institutions.

"This meeting is preliminary and exploratory," Shepherd said.

With Webb were Sen. John McClellan, D-Ark., Rep. Wilbur Mills, D-Ark., and Rep. George Miller, D-Calif., chairman of House Science and Astronautics Committee.

Webb was scheduled to appear tonight at a dinner in Jackson, Miss., but a member of his party said it was "debatable" whether he would attend the event. Civil rights groups in Jackson were protesting his planned appearance before a segregated audience at a "legislative welcome dinner."

Wants People to Stay on Farm

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—Gov. Orval E. Faubus said Monday programs are badly needed to encourage people to stay in rural areas.

Faubus told the annual convention of the Arkansas Seed Dealers Association he noted that more than half of the state's residents now live in urban areas.

He said rural people are "the most wholesome people in the world—the most stabilizing influence. When we lose these people it adds to problems in the urban areas."

Faubus suggested a good rural road program would be one method of encouraging rural life.

The governor also said more money is needed for rural schools, teacher salaries, and for means of solving agricultural problems.

Ham with Limas

Divide your shank ham into portions that can be cooked in different ways! The shank end of the ham bone may be used to simmer with beans or use in a casserole dish. Then, the remaining meaty portion can be baked whole. The boneless part can be cut into several thick or thin ham slices to fry or broil. This leaves a chunky bone-in piece for baking. Richard, Liz Arrive in Toronto

TORONTO (AP) — Richard Burton and Elizabeth Taylor, traveling without luggage under assumed names, wound up a transcontinental flight to Toronto Tuesday night in all the secrecy of a Hollywood premiere.

Despite elaborate precautions — a hidden limousine, secluded customs inspection, and side-door entrances — hundreds of fans mobbed the couple at the airport and at their downtown hotel.

Burton took one look at the largely teen-age airport crowd and said, "I hope they're all going to see Hamlet."

The Welsh actor begins rehearsals Thursday for a modern dress version of Shakespeare's tragedy.

Miss Taylor, bundled in a fawn coat, kept repeating, "It's cold." She said she brought six heavy sweaters.

The untanned couple arrived via Chicago from Los Angeles, where they slipped away from reporters under the assumed names of Rosamond Sutherland and Walter Rule.

They left the airport through a special exit to a hidden limousine, but about half of the crowd of 400 got wind of the maneuver and got a glimpse of the Burton's secretary, Jim Benton, arrived on a later plane with 15 pieces of luggage and two dogs.

The management of Toronto's King Edward Hotel held a special elevator for them for an hour at a side entrance. Several hundred fans found them there, too.

Says State Could Have Dual Vote

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Atty. Gen. Bruce Bennett said today Arkansas could set up a dual election system as a means of overcoming the voter registration problem created by the constitutional amendment abolishing the poll tax in federal elections.

Bennett said the amendment has no effect on elections for city, county and state offices.

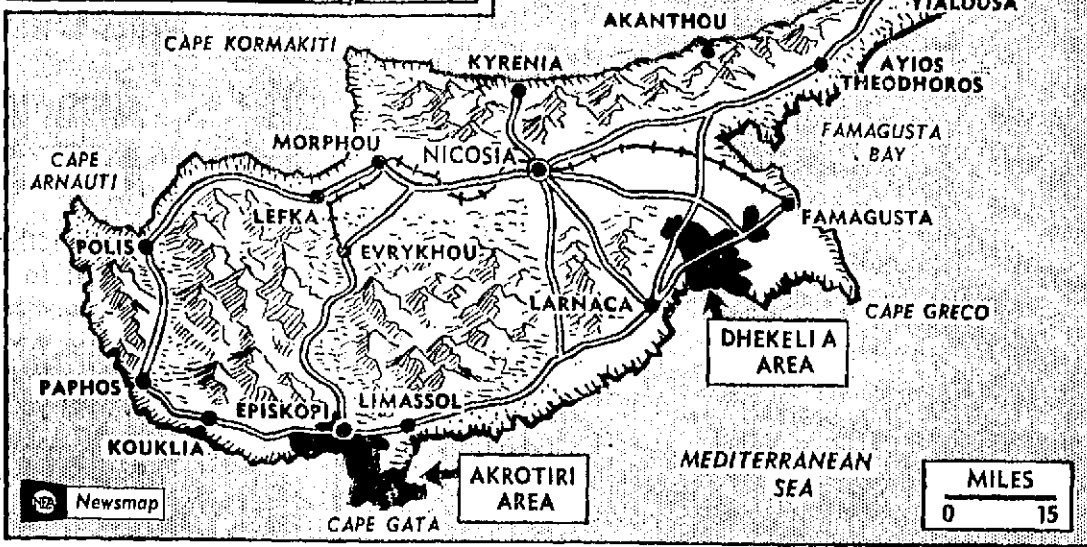

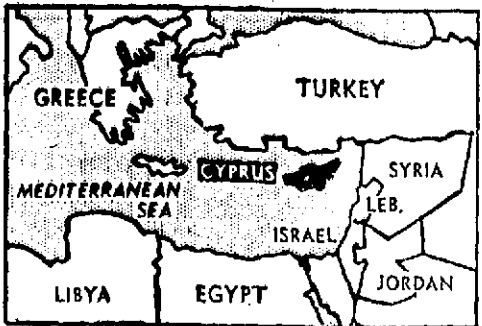

The attorney general said the dual system would require action by the legislature. Gov. Orval E. Faubus indicated Monday that a special session would be called soon.

In a dual system, the poll tax could be used in state and local registration, Bennett said. When a person bought a poll tax, he automatically could be registered to vote in federal races.

available, depending on the size of Burton's party, a hotel spokesman said. The choice of accommodations was kept secret, but it was believed to be the vice-regal suite, a five-room, $65-a-day apartment furnished with Louis XV antiques.

The hotel spokesman said the security force had been augmented, but that no other special arrangements had been made.

"This hotel has been in business for 60 years and we're not doing anything different," she said.

THE STORY: It's rodeo day in Scottsville. Duffey buys cowboy togs and dark glasses and goes to the event, where he meets Gail. He is still hunting for a red head who framed him for car theft.

"Me," I admitted, "incognito."

She let the sunglasses slide back onto my nose. She stared at me, working to keep her gaze steady. Finally she asked, "Why did you come back in this silly get-up?"

"Ask me no questions and I'll tell you no lies."

Two men went past us at the bar. One of them nodded automatically. If the redhead hadn't been with him, I don't suppose I would have recognized Solly. In cowboy clothes he looked sillier than I did. The redhead didn't look silly. He looked lean and reckless, with bright green eyes and that tattoo of an anchor on the back of his right hand that I'd never forget.

"You know Solly," I said.

"He has some business connections with Jack Charlton. Jack owns Solly's liquor license for a place on the other side of Phoenix. I know him that much. Now, what's this business about meeting the Winstons and how come you know Solly?"

"I don't want to meet the Winstons, just to go to their party."

"No," she said, "I'll have nothing to do with you."

"You think I'm trouble now," I whispered. "Honey, you don't know anything about trouble. Unless we're on our way out of here in 60 seconds I'm going to yell for the police. Then four of us are going to the police station: you and me and Solly and the redhead tramp with him. The redhead, in case you don't know it, is wanted for jumping bail on a car-theft charge in Palos Verdes. Solly is going to have some tall explaining to do about why he left a couple of his Rover Boys and their bikes sniffling all over the road down by South Mountain; and Charlton's going to be involved up to his neck because he owns the liquor license on the Viva Juarez! saloon, which according to my late friend, Jinx, is a touchy question these days in Arizona."

She slid off the bar stool and took my arm. "I think we had better be going," she said.

We took the shabby convertible north toward Paradise Valley. It was a cool, crisp day, warm in the sun and with a knife in the breeze.

"This, I don't figure," she said finally. "You and the zoo crowd. It doesn't fit anything. Doesn't fit anything and why involve me?"

"I like your company."

"You never saw me before the night before last."

"I've been away. I've been in prison."

She glanced at me and then went back to her driving. "Are you crazy, Duffey?"

"Not particularly. I wish I could trust you, but I can't. If I had been smart or psychic I'd have taken your boss's offer. That was the one fat break fate tried to give me. Now we are going to a party. Let us relax and rejoice."

The big house was tucked up against the wrinkled lizard spine of rock and rusty dirt. We had to go past a guard at the gate, but he knew Gail and did not bother to call in.

of drive and in the asphalt parking area. An ostrich paced us the last 50 feet of our ride and then stared at us over a net fence as we left the convertible and walked up to the house. He didn't look as though he had the slightest intention of burying his head in the sand.

Going up the broad flagstone steps, the whole thing seemed as insane as she had suggested. In a couple of cowboy costumes we were crashing a fancy cocktail party where no one could care less that a little frightened man had died at "Q," that a bartender was missing from one of their swank saloons, that a vicious slug of a man had tried to kill me or had left two of his own all smashed up down south of the city. All I knew was that I trusted Maggie, knew I had something to trade on with Herbert. I would find both of them here, and needed them desperately.

Herbert found me before I found him, found me even as I was being introduced to a balding, pleasant young man who apparently was Bill Winston.

"Al Duffey!" Herbert wrung my hand and sent lines of needles screaming into my shoulder. A gibbon ape wearing sequin-trimmed diapers came loping to grasp my left hand.

"As one clown to another," I said, "I'm delighted to meet you."

Bill Winston called, "Anne," and a handsome blonde woman relieved me of my simian companion. We tried to tell each other how delighted we were that I could be there; but Herbert interrupted, saying, "Bill, this is Erasmus Duffey's son."

Robbery Recovery Case Dismissed

KENNETT, Mo. (AP)—A suit seeking to recover money held by Duncan County, Mo. authorities as evidence in an Arkansas armed robbery case, was dismissed Tuesday.

Tommy Martin Edwards, 43, of Tulsa, had filed the suit against Duncan County Sheriff Raymond Scott, saying he was wrongfully detained after 13 men were robbed of over $4,000 at a secluded fishing cabin near Trumann.

Authorities took $2,229 from him when he was arrested in Kennett Dec. 29. Edwards now is in jail in Tulsa on another charge. His attorneys dismissed the suit.

In 1871, the Little Rock and Fort Smith Railroad advertised in Little Rock newspapers that it was running trains on a daily basis as far west as Lewisburg, near the present-day site of Morrilton.

Smokey Says:

WHO DID THIS TO YOUR HERITAGE?

Could it be you—just because of carelessness?

Baker Probe in Tangle of Names, Dates

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate investigation of Robert G. Baker, sweeping up a tangle of names, dates and deals, came under growing Republican pressure today to dig deeper and resolve a dispute involving presidential aide Walter Jenkins.

The possibility Jenkins, a long time assistant to President Johnson, may be asked to testify arose as Republicans, branding a campaign issue, raised a cry of "possible perjury."

Special counsel L. F. McLendon of the Senate Rules Committee said he didn't know whether the White House assistant would be questioned about his disputed role in the sale of advertising time on the Johnson family television station in Austin, Tex., to an insurance man.

Republican National Chairman William E. Miller demanded that the committee develop fully what Miller called a "direct conflict" in sworn statements by Jenkins and insurance man Don B. Reynolds, a witness in the Baker hearings.

He said there is "a clear issue of possible perjury" which should be followed through.

The committee, in recess today, is investigating whether Baker, who resigned under fire on Oct. 7 as secretary to the Senate's Democratic majority, engaged in business dealings that conflicted with his official duties or involved other improprieties.

Reynolds, a local insurance agent with whom Baker was associated, has testified that at Jenkins' suggestion he agreed to buy the advertising time in connection with his sale of $100,000 in insurance on Johnson's life.

At the time Johnson was the Democratic leader of the Senate. Later, after Johnson had become vice president, the insurance was increased to $200,000.

Jenkins denied in his sworn statement that he had knowledge "of any arrangements" by which Reynolds purchased advertising time on the TV station.

Reynolds has disputed this and has said that not only he but Albert G. Young, president of the Mid-Atlantic Stainless Steel Corp. of Silver Spring, Md., a pots and pans manufacturer, discussed the television advertising with Jenkins.

Greeks Want UN Force on Cyprus

By RICHARD KASISCHKE

LONDON (AP)—Greek Cypriots indicated today that they want a United Nations force to keep peace on the Mediterranean island and not the NATO contingent Britain has been trying to muster.

Zenon Rossides, Cyprus' delegate to the United Nations, told Secretary-General U Thant in New York Tuesday a U.N. peace-keeping force would be acceptable on his territory.

American and British diplomats strove to keep the lid on tempers in Athens, Ankara and Nicosia as signs mounted that U.S. troops might soon be assigned to help keep Turkish and Greek Cypriots from each other's throats.

The London Daily Sketch reported that U.S. 6th Fleet ships with combat Marines aboard had been ordered to "within striking distance of Cyprus as fears of a Turkish invasion swept the island."

A U.S. Defense Department spokesman said Washington knew of no unusual moves by the fleet.

Britain, whose military reserve has been drained by trouble in Cyprus, East Africa and Malaysia, has suggested that the United States provide some help. Similar appeals have been made to West Germany, France, Italy and Canada, all members of the North Atlantic Alliance, along with Greece and Turkey.

U.S. officials in Washington said the United States is seriously considering sending a contingent of troops to Cyprus.

Arkansans Back in Jail in Mexico

ESTANCIA, N.M. (AP)—Two Arkansas brothers and a New Mexico man were back in county jail today, ending a 20-mile hike after escaping through an air conditioning vent.

Albert Cleaver, 20, and his brother Ray, 18, both of Hot Springs, Ark., and Bill Serna, 21, Manzano, N.M., were captured Tuesday about 20 miles southwest of Estancia. They were hiking across open country toward Manzano, southeast of Albuquerque, when they were tracked down by Sheriff Ramon Lesperance.

The three men escaped Monday night by pulling themselves through an air vent that exists on the roof of the two-story Torrance County Jail. They had lowered themselves to a porch roof with blankets and climbed down a drain pipe to the ground.

The Cleaver brothers were held on a breaking and entering charge when they escaped.

Maharis Has Hit the Road Again, Rt. 66

By BOB THOMAS

AP Movie-Television Writer

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (AP)—George Maharis has hit the road again, but this time it's California Highway 111, not Route 66.

The ruggedly handsome actor, late of television, has made the jump to movies and is starring in an adventure yarn called "The Satan Bug." It is being filmed in the canyons and on the highways of this desert resort by John Sturges, the "Great Escape" man.

The Greek-American is thoughtful and calculating about his career, as evidenced by his relations with his onetime "Route 66" employers. Maharis went that route with buddy Martin Milner for two years and half, attracting a large and demonstrative following among the younger crowd.

Circumstances caused Maharis to leave the television series, after which Glenn Corbett jumped into the codriver's seat. Those circumstances were stormy, and Maharis sketched his side of the dispute during a break in shooting.

"Within a month after leaving the hospital where I had been treated for hepatitis," he said, "they had me working in St. Louis 70 hours a week. This, despite their claims that they would make it easy for me if I came back to the series."

"That seemed to me like a strange way to recover—on the road. I lost complete faith in them (the producers). And I'm the kind of a guy who can't work for someone I've lost faith in."

He said that the best medical advice, including that of a doctor for the company, indicated that he should take a year to recover from the effects of hepatitis.

"And I did just that," he said. "I took off a whole year. The only work I did was some personal in connection with my records, a television version of Edward Albee's 'The American Dream' for David Susskind, and a Judy Garland show."

But the dispute with the "Route 66" makers didn't end. The company still claimed rights to his services. Opposing lawyers finally reached an agreement.

"I didn't pay them a cent to get out of the contract," he declared, "and I didn't give them any call on my services. The only concession I made was that I wouldn't star in any other television series as long as 'Route 66' was on the air." He added with a grin: "And now it's being dropped."

My life has been hard but one of love—I mean love from my mother. Dad died when I was 13. I quit school at 16 to help Mom and my brother, then only eight. From his teens on he was a cross to us, hoboed and drank, did everything short of killing. Many's the time Mom and me didn't know whether he was dead or alive and it worried us sick for we were the only ones that cared.

Mom had six children, he and I were all that left. To me she was the sweetest thing on earth. She and I thanked God when Brother joined the Navy. He stayed his time, and got out about the time I married 12 years ago. First thing he did was get drunk and tell my husband he would horse-whip him. Later he said he was sorry but my husband never forgave or forgot.

Last fall, Brother lost his leg in an accident in another town. My husband didn't want me to go to him but Mom and I went.

THAT'S THE BREAKS—Knowing that this photo was taken in sunny California, one might be led to think that Paul and Julie Arms were looking through pieces of glass. But once it is learned that San Rafael had a 23-degree night, it can be grasped that it's not glass at all, but a few icy chunks from a large frozen puddle.

He stayed his time, and got out about the time I married 12 years ago. First thing he did was get drunk and tell my husband he would horse-whip him. Later he said he was sorry but my husband never forgave or forgot.

Last fall, Brother lost his leg in an accident in another town. My husband didn't want me to go to him but Mom and I went.

School Bill Passed in Five Minutes

WASHINGTON (AP) — With only five minutes of talk the House has swiftly approved $216 million for school districts swollen with children of federal employees.

Legislation authorizing the funds was passed last December but the administration didn't ask for the money until last week.

The House passed the measure unanimously Monday and sent it to the Senate.

In addition to appropriating funds for the impacted school districts the bill would provide funds for three other programs authorized by Congress—

—$41 million for construction of community mental health centers and research into mental health and retardation.

—$31.2 million for expansion of the college loan program under the National Defense Education Act.

—$600,000 for continuing the Mexican farm labor program for one year.

Refuses to Talk to Segregated Group

JACKSON, Miss. (AP) — James Webb, administrator of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, refused to appear before a segregated audience Tuesday night, but the event attracted two other high ranking space officials.

Webb announced earlier in Little Rock he would not appear as the featured speaker for a legislative welcoming dinner here because the audience would be segregated.

His announcement came after a Negro civil rights group, the Council of Federated Organizations, telegraphed Webb protesting his appearance here.

Most state officials and Gov. Paul Johnson were in attendance.

Johnson, when asked for comment on the Webb withdrawal, said:

"Who is James Webb?"

Capt. William Fortune, manager of the Mississippi test operations in Hancock County and Dr. Jerry C. McCall, director of research and development operations at Marshall Space Flight Center in Huntsville, Ala., appeared for the dinner.

Johnson Calls Conferences on Impulse

By JAMES MARLOW

Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP) — The most unpredictable event in Washington is a President Johnson news conference. He seems to call conferences on impulse, with scant advance notice.

The word "impulse" seems justified here, just as it does with some of Johnson's other dealings with newspaper people — like taking them on a tour of the White House or his ranch.

Presidents Eisenhower and Kennedy rambled a bit, with halts, starts, and some broken sentences. So does Johnson, with some additional rambling of a different kind which he must feel serves a purpose of its own.

Where the other two men pretty much limited their answers to a specific question asked, Johnson has a tendency to spread out, hopping from one subject to another while replying to a single question.

This can't necessarily be called good, bad, helpful, or unhelpful, at least not yet. The multiple answer technique enables Johnson to get across a lot of things he wants to say.

In effect, it turns a news conference into a platform for his ideas.

But, while the long statements permit him to give out more information, or opinions, on more subjects than reporters might have thought to ask him about, it also reduces the time they have for asking questions they might want answers to.

Eisenhower and Kennedy usually handled an average of 25 to 30 questions. The most questions Johnson has answered were 18 at one conference; 9 at another; 17 at another; 14 at another. Then there was a memorable meeting with the press when, after making a statement he answered only one question.

The accuracy of calling that particular meeting with the press a news conference is questionable. Johnson called the reporters together suddenly last Thursday for one reason—or so it seemed—and that was to give information on Panama.

When he finished one newsman asked: "How do you think things are going on the Hill (meaning with Congress)?" That gave Johnson two opportunities: to talk about what Congress was doing with his programs, and to talk about his relations with his former Senate aide, Robert G. (Bobby) Baker.

When he got through with his double-long answer to that single question Johnson walked out. But he used the question to give his view on how he came to receive a $585 hi-fi set.

An insurance agent who had written a large policy on Johnson's life had testified that he paid for the set.

The President said the set had been given him by Baker. The President said Baker did not expect anything in return and that the Johnson and Baker families had exchanged gifts before.

The Senate Rules Committee is investigating Baker, whose financial activities are beginning to sound fabulous. Baker, a one-time Johnson protégé, began his Capitol Hill career as a page boy and advanced to the post of secretary of the Democratic majority.

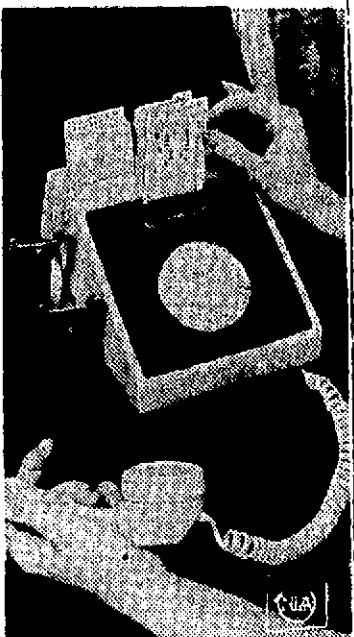

Johnson was the Democratic leader in the Senate when Baker was there. Baker quit last October under fire and so far has refused to talk.

The insurance man, Don B. Reynolds, said he bought the music set and had it shipped to Johnson at Baker's request shortly after $100,000 in insurance on Johnson's life was purchased through Reynolds' agency.

This was Johnson's first public comment on the Baker case. He has declined to say anything further. It is debatable whether he was wise to comment at all. He has opened the door to be quizzed further as the committee investigation goes on.

Johnson might have saved himself such questions by issuing a single statement when the Baker case is finished, if he felt it necessary to say anything.

Schedule Out Many Shows Are Dropped

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

AP Television-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—NBC has announced its 1964-65 television schedule. CBS will make its announcement within a few days. ABC will have to follow suit soon.

NBC's unexpectedly early announcement concerned only new shows. The television networks never, or almost never, announce program deaths. Ten new programs — more than a third of its evening programming — will be presented and some remaining programs put in new time periods.

To make room for the new in September or October, a number of current shows must depart. Among those which, the announcement indicated, will disappear after summer reruns are "Sing Along With Mitch," "The 11th Hour," "The Joey Bishop Show," and "Show of the Week."

Discarded after one short season are "The Bill Dana Show," "Grindl," "The Richard Boone Show," "Espionage," "Temple Houston," and "The Lieutenant."

On two evenings NBC proposes to fill the time with only two shows between 7:30 and 11. It plans six hours a week of feature length films—two hours of old movies on Monday and Saturday nights and also a two-hour feature anthology series on Wednesday nights. One new 90-minute series, "90 Bristol Court," will consist of three related stories and will be followed by a two-hour movie.

Other new shows in the schedule are an adventure series called "The Rogues," costarring David Niven, Charles Boyer and Gig Young; "Solo," an action adventure series created by Ian Fleming, "The 13th Gate," a science fiction effort. Five half-hour comedies will be slipped into the schedule here and there. A variety hour on Tuesday nights is expected to star either Andy Williams or Joey Bishop.

At CBS, the big excitement is that Ed Sullivan will expand his Sunday night hour to 90 minutes starting April 5. The network insists this is a permanent change and not a temporary expedient to plug half of the hole left by the departure of Judy Garland.

ABC's bright new "Hollywood Palace" is a television vaudeville show that gives comedians a chance to be really funny and singers enough time to sing more than one chorus. It is Sullivan's first real competition in years and he may truly welcome a chance to expand his show.

The fate of "East Side, West Side" family was decided. It has been hanging by a thread and year-old farmer who received two kidneys from an infant in a kidney transplant operation Jan. 1 died today at the University of Arkansas Medical Center of an infection stemming from low resistance caused by drugs, doctors said.

Transplanted Kidneys Fail

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — A 40-

He was Wilbert A. Noll of Morrilton, Ark., a World War II veteran who had been kept alive three months by an artificial kidney after his diseased kidneys were removed. Doctors said the transplant itself was a technical success and that the transplanted kidneys had functioned better than in many other recorded cases. The kidneys were from a 28-month-old child who died from a brain tumor.

"As in many similar operations performed elsewhere," a Medical Center statement read, "Noll succumbed to infection incurred during the period when his resistance had been lowered by drugs in order to prevent the body's rejection of the transplanted kidney."

Removal of the man's kidneys had been necessary to save his life, doctors said. The parents of the child donated the kidneys for the transplant.

Living Cost Edges Higher in December

WASHINGTON (AP)—Mainly because of weather damage to vegetable crops, the cost of living rose two-tenths of one per cent last month, the Labor Department said today in reporting an unusual increase in December prices.

It was only the third time in the last 10 years that the cost of living rose in December, the Bureau of Labor Statistics said. The rise took the consumer price index to 107.6. This meant it took $10.76 to purchase items that cost $10 in the 1957-59 base period.

Food prices increased 0.3 per cent from November, primarily because of sharply increased vegetable prices after Southern crops were damaged by freezing weather. An increase of nearly 3 per cent in sugar prices also contributed to the rise in grocery prices.

Other factors that made it more expensive to live in December included a 0.3 per cent increase in housing costs, and increases in public transit fares and gasoline prices.

In a year-end review of prices situation, a spokesman said: "Prices of practically everything were higher over the year."

The spokesman said food prices could be expected to go even higher in January's index but that expected decreases in clothing and household appliances would probably help balance it off.

School Buses Meet, No Serious Injuries

MORRILTON, Ark. (AP) — Two school buses loaded with about 70 Negro pupils collided at an intersection today and went into a ditch, slightly injuring 33 students. None was hospitalized.

The 33 were examined at St. Anthony hospital and doctors said they treated several cuts and bruises "and took a few stitches," then released all the children.

Another doctor went to the school to examine other children for possible injury.

Sheriff Martin Hawkins said one bus from Russellville, driven by Frank Ross, collided with the bus from Morrilton driven by Doc Ingle at an intersection three blocks from the Sullivan High School and Clark Grade School, a large Negro school complex that draws students from a large area.

On impact, both buses skidded toward a shallow ditch and the Morrilton bus sideswiped a telephone pole before the buses came to rest side by side.

Many of the children got off the buses and walked the remaining distance to school.

when they would meet newsmen. The place was always known beforehand. This enabled all newspaper men and women with White House credentials to be present and try to question the President.

Johnson's conferences have been called on such short notice, right in the White House or at his ranch, that the only newspaper people able to be present usually have been those regularly assigned to cover the President.

This isn't by itself necessarily bad, either. Some of the Eisenhower and Kennedy conferences looked like mob scenes. Some of them, because of the dull nature and pettiness of the questions, were boring.

Johnson, neither as witty nor as much at ease as Kennedy, has not yet attempted what Kennedy did as routine for almost three years: meet the press at a question and answer session televised live.
